MURDER IN MICHIGAN.

TTORNEY FRED MARSHALL TAKES FIVE LIVES.

Kills the President of a Lumb Company and Then Murders His Own Family-Winds Up by Committing Suicide.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) MUSKEGON (Mich.,) April 10.-News has been received from Pentwa-ter of a bold attempt on the life of william O. Sand, president of the Sands & Maxwell Lumber Company, last night. When he was within a few yards of home, Fred Marshall jumped from behind the corner and commenced shooting at him. Sands ran across the street to his home, the would-be assassin keeping up the fire. Five shots were fired, three hitting him in the right arm, and one in leg. Marshall immediately went home, shot his wife and two children and then took his own

Marshall was an insurance agent and attorney. He left a long letter, the gist of which is that Sands promised him all his company's business, and now demanded a third of the commission. Marshall was badly involved, and extreme love for his family prompted him to kill them, rather than see them suffer.

The Boss Element Versus Clean McKinley Delegates.

A Sugared Candidate Yelept Spreck els—One Mit Who Won't "Get har"—India-rubber Lindley. Straws from Many Sources.

(BY TELECHAPH TO THE TIMES.) SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—(Special Dispatch.) In addition to the names cial Dispatch.) In addition to the names mentioned in my dispatch of the 8th inst., of aspirants as delegates to the 8th. Louis convention, may be named the following: John D. Spreckels wants to go as one of the delegates-at-large as a champion of Allison. He has a fight on in the Fourth and Fifth Districts of this city, and is using the power of the City and County Committee in the effort to make his point, and establish himself as boss of San Francisco local politics. This ambition Francisco local politics. This ambition is probably stronger with him than the desire to serve any candidate for the Presidential nomination. He will be sharply antagonized by the McKinley forces, who unquestionably represent public sentiment here, and it is not unlikely that Spreckels will be folled in his vaulting ambition, as the McKinley men are acting under authority more regular than that which belies the second regular than that which backs the son of the "Sugar King." Gen. N. P. Chipman of Red Bluff has aspirations for one of the positions at large. He is originally for Allison, but would obey instructions and vote for McKinley.

McKinley.

News reaches here from the south that Lione A. Sheldon of Los Angeles is also an apprant for delegate-at-large. In fact, it is said that he has been chasing the place for half a year, making a still hunt in secret circles and shouting now for McKinley, now for the candidate of the A.P.A., whoever he may be—bloving hot and then blowing cold. He is now in San Francisco trying to mend his ragged teness. The fact develops that his backing is not solid, and his chances constitute a case of quien sabe.

Eli Denison of the Oakland district obs up again as a candidate for district delegate under the tutelage of the railroad company. He is a champion of to camp on the trail of the "peanut butcher" of the S. P. The mischlef of the situation in Oakland is that Eli and his cohorts are a tempting to "get there" by riding roughshod over pub-lic sentiment, which in Oakland, as everywhere else in the State is over-whelmingly for McKinley. Denison and his people have united in a scheme to do away with primeries and have the delegates to the State convention appointed. This has caused a roar among the McKinley men, and they vow that they won't have it.

Grove Johnson of Sacramento wants to go to the convention also. He is another offspring of the octopus and is not acceptable to the McKinley mer of the Capitol City. Besides, there is a sentiment abroad that no member of Congress ought to try to push him elf into the convention. Senator Per kins takes this view and has written letter to certain Oakland admirer declining to be a candidate for dele gate and also putting aside the profered crown of the Vice-Presidency which on the Lupercal of Oakland wa at one time presented to him.

In the northern part of the Sixth District Field of Monterey is said to be an aspirant for a delegate's position He stands well in that section, but is Kinley people of his district would like to see him step aside for John T. Porter, who is a reliable McKinley man, though somewhat extreme on free coin

Another aspirant for delegate in the same district is said to be Hervey Lindley of Los Angeles, who has been making a rubber-shoe campaign for the place for months past. His overwhelming defeat months past. His overwhelming defeat for Congress in 1892, when he went down under a majority of over six thousand votes in a Republican district, has been mentioned here as a possible disqualification in his present ambition. But this suggestion comes from people who don't know him, and have no just appreciation of the indiarubber-like qualities of his political corpus. Advices received from Los Angeles state that the McKinley people will speedily put a man in the field to contest the ground with Lindley.

In the remainder of the State it is expected that the McKinley delegates will be chosen, and that the four delegates atted in my former dispatch: George A. Knight and Judge J. A. Waymire of San Francisco, Judge J. J. De Haven from the north and U. S. Grant, Jr., from the south. The utmost confidence is expressed here in the election of Grant by the convention, which may be instructed for McKinley delegates throughout, for it is believed that by the time the convention meets the Mc-

The Chronicle this morning printed a coupon of the leading Repub-lican Presidential candidates, and asked its readers to mark with a cross their choice for President, and also to indicate which they considered the par-amount issue, tariff or money. Of the results of the first day's receipts, the Chronicle will say tomor

The platform declares for the use of both gold and silver, with such restrictions as will secure the values of the two metals. The following is the financial plank in full:

"The American people from tradition and interest favor bimetallism, and the Republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money, with such restrictions and under such provisions to be determined by legislation as will secure the maintenance of the parity of values of the two metals, so that the purchasing and debt-paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal. The interest of the producers of the country—its farmers and its workingmen—demand that every dollar, paper or coin, issued by the government, shall be as good as any other dollar."

sound money and protection, and we want to nominate a man for President who will be an exponent of these principles. There is no man I. can more heartily name than New England's greatest statesman, T. B. Reed."

The following were elected delegatesat large: Edward T. Freeman, Frank F. Olney, Albert L. Chester, S. W. Allen; alternates, A. J. Currier, Laurian Sharpe, Jr., William S. Stearns and Col. A. H. Childs. The delegates were not instructed. The only platform adopted was a resolution presented by the Providence Board of Trade, which declares in favor of gold as the monetary standard; in favor of a national court of arbitration, and denouncing the free coinage of sliver. For the First District John S. Sanborn and G. J. Smith were elected delegates; Second District, Charles Francis and Walter A. Reed.

The Sectarian School Question Again Under Fire.

enator Allison's Idea on the Subject Filled Cheese Fills Up the Time of the House-Items from Committee Room

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, April 10 .- The Senate took up the question of sectarian Indian schools today, but did not com-plete it. The debate was very temper-ate and no reference was made to the organization which has been active in opposition to sectarian schools. Sen-ator Carter of Montana proposed to strike out the provision directing that no money should be spent on sectarian schools. This led to a general argu-ment, in which Senators Carter, Lodge, Gray, Hoar, Hawley, Allison and Gal-linger participated. An important bill passed at the close of the day was that providing for a transmississippi and inernational exposition at Omaha in

The House spent the entire day in general debate on the "Filled-cheese Bill." Tomorrow that bill will be read under the five-minute rule for amendment. A very considerable opposition to the measure has developed, and some of the members interested in its passage fear it will fail unless radically amended. The principal objection seems to be raised to the tax features of the bill, $400 on the manufacturer of the bill, $400 on the manner appears general unanimity in favor of a bill to compel the branding of filled

REGULAR SESSION.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) WASHINGTON, April 10.—SENATE. President pro tem Frye was in the chair today in the absence of Vice-President Stevenson. Senator Call of Florida stated that inquiries had been made of him by Eugene V. Debs and other labor leaders as to whether the Senate Judiciary Committee had taken any action in restricting the power of the Federal judges. Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said that all members believed some com-prehensive legislation on this line was needed, and several plans were under consideration. needed, and several plans were under consideration. Senator Hill of New York had special charge of the subject. Senator Thurston of Nebraska had presented a measure covering the whole subject. He (Senator Hoar,) expected a definite plan would be presented to the Senate later on.

Senator Mitchell of Oregon, chairman of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, reported a resolution providing for the payment of salaries of Senators Mantle of Montana and Clark of Wyoming from March 4, 1893, the date when the Senatorial seats from those States became vacant, instead of from the later time when the Senators were elected, the resolution being necessary to validate payments already made.

There was a breeze when Senator Call presented a joint resolution concerning the imprisonment of Mrs. Maybrick, requesting the President to intervene with the British authorities toward securing her release.

"That ought not to be introduced here, and I move to lay the resolution on the table," interposed Senator Sherman. "The Senate of the United States has no jurisdiction over the subject." Senator Call dissented from this prop-

it discourteous toward Great Britain. He thought the course proposed by Senator Sherman was an arbitrary one. Senator Sherman insisted on his motion to table. On a viva voce vote the motion appeared to prevail. Senator Call asked for a folicall. Thereupon Senator Sherman said he would assent to the reference of the resolution to the Judiciary Committee. This was agreed to. Consideration of the Indian Approconsideration of the Indian Appropriation Bill was then resumed. Senator Cannon offered an amendment providing that members of any commission treating with Indians shall be bonafide residents of the State or Territory in which the Indians are located. This brought on a debate as to the personnel of Indian commissions.

DELEGATES ON WHEELS.
CHICAGO, April 10.—A special to the Times-Herald from New York says that Joseph R. Clark, a King-county delegate to the National Republican Convention, will go to St. Louis on a bicycle. Alderman Clark has organized a club of Brookkyn Republicans who will accompany him on the trip. The new organization is called the Morton Cycle Legion. The legion will take two weeks to reach the convention.

CULLOM WILL WITHDRAW.
CHICAGO, April 10.—The Times-Herald's Washington special says that Senator Cullom has written a letter withdrawing from the Presidential contest, but has not yet decided when to make it public. It was Mr. Cullom's intention to give the letter to the press tomorrow, but tonight he was urged by the friends of other candidates to defer its publication.

A DEMOCRATIC CAIL.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Secretary Nelson of the Democratic State Committee today issued a call for a meeting of that organization in Chicago on April 20.

He addressed his criticisms against the Secretary of the Interior.

The Cannon amendment was finally ruled out on a point of order. This brought the Senate to the sectarian school provisions of the bill.

Senator Carter of Montana moved to strike out the provision declaring that "no money herein appropriated shall be paid for education for sectarian schools."

be paid for education for sectarian schools."

He said that in 1870, under the peace policy of Gen. Grant, the government developed the plan of civilizing and educating the Indians. This work of education and civilization proceeded until 1894, Senator Carter, went on, when a change of policy was determined upon, trom which the government schools would take the place of contract private schools. This, bill made the radical proposition that no money whatever shall be paid to the schools. It also made the change so precipitately that thousands as Indian children would be cut of from their schools. Such a course was not in accordance with honesty and humanity. As to the claim that denominational influence was exerted toward the Indians, Senator Carter said he knew of no form of Christianity which being injected into the American Indian would do him any harm. He argued that the change from contract government schools be brought about gradually.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts said

enator Lodge of Massachusetts sald Senator Lodge of Massachusetts said the abolition of contract schools was a subject long before Congress and the effort was always met by the same plea, that Indian children would be cut off from their schools. There was no doubt, said Senator Lodge, that the Christian faith might be profitably given to Indians, but it was not for the government to foster sectarian leg-islation.

he government of the station of the amendment of Senator Carter; Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire opposed the Carter amendment which, he said, was intended to continue appropriations to sectarian schools, most of which were conducted by denominations.

Senator Hawley said he was for the Carter amendment. He had doubts as to the meaning of "sectarian schools." Was it not possible, asked Senator Hawley, to adopt some middle course, agreeable to all, by which the Lord's prayer and the golden rule could be permitted in these schools.

Senator Palmer said that as it was conceded that the government was to educate the Indians and was not ready with the facilities for education, then the sectarian facilities might well be taken advantage of until the government was ready to assume its full duty.

taken advantage of until the government was ready to assume its full duty.

Senator Peffer of Karsas offered an ameadment to overcome Senator Carter's objection, providing that, in any case Indian children would be deprived of their schools, then the Secretary of the Interior is to provide temporary school facilities.

Senator Hoar said Gen. Graut had started the sectarian school plan, and he regarded it as one of the best of his accomplishments. The only safe-principle was to entirely separate church and State, abandoning the sectarian schools with the precaption against inferrupting the partly completed school course of Indian children. Senator Hoar said that he had no sympathy for any intolerant exclusion of a citizen from all privileges as a result of his faith.

Senator Allison said it was a mistake to suppose any number of Indian children would be deprived of their education if the bill passed without the amendment. He said the idea of Gen. Grant was that the churches should assume the educational funds, but it was not contemplated that there should be contract schools. The Indian Bill was thereupon laid aside.

Senator Allen then succeeded in getting up the bill for a transmississipple exposition at Omaha in 1893. "Amendments were agreed to, making the exposition international in scope and appropriating $50,000 for buildings. Senator Mills proposed an adjournment to $200,000. HOUSE. Mr. Hainer of Nebraska reported the Fortification Appropriation Bill.

The bill to increase the pension of the widow of the late Col. John Irving Gregs falled. Representative Loud of California said he would oppose atl bills to increase the pensions of officers' widows.

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio demanded the widows.

Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio demanded the regular order in the interest of the Filled-cheese Bill, and the debate on that measure was resumed, with the understanding that general debate close at 4:30 o'clock today.

Mr. Grosvenor, in charge of the bill, addressed the House in favor of the temperature of filled cheese from skimmed milk and leaf lard. All the persons who had appeared before the Ways and Means Committee, he said, but one, a manufacturer of filled cheese, had opposed the bill. The bill had been framed on the lines of the oleomargarine bill, which has become a law against the most intense opposition. Though subjected to the severest tests of litigation, it has been held constitutional in all essentials. The committee therefore had held to the legal pathway blazed by that bill. It was, Mr. Grosvenor argued, the duty of legislation to project the producers of food products from competition with spurious articles and to protect the consumer from the purchase of such counterfeits. The exportation of filled cheese, he claimed, has practically rulned the foreign market for genuine American cheese. This bill should not prohibit or discourage the manufacturer of filled cheese, it is simply forced the manufacturer and sale of it under its true colors.

In reply to a question by Mr. Can-forced the manufacture and sale of it under its true colors.

In reply to a question by Mr. Cannon, Mr. Grosvenor said that despite the taxation and penalties in the oleomargarine law, the manufacturers had gone on making vast profits. The testimony before the Ways and Means Committee, he said, demonstrated that the law was violated a thousand times a day in the city of Washington.

"Is the experience with the oleomar garine law not the best reason," asked Mr. McMillin, "why this effort to destroy an industry by taxation should not be made?"

Mr. Grosvenor denied that the bill of be made?"

Mr. Grosvenor denied that the bill proposed to destroy the industry. The egulations in the bill, he said, would compet the sale of filled cheese under ing the sale of filled cheese under true name.

In Otey of Virginia opened the deal in opposition to the bill, and Mr. Millin of Tennessee, a member of Ways and Means Committee, made principal argument against it. He used that there was no reason why makers of filled cheese should be tod while the manufacturers of other, may of cheese were not taxed, and at resort to the power of taxation for suppression of its production or was an abuse of that power.

In Tawney of Minnesota, undertook above the injury done to the legiciate cheese industry by the manufacturers of filled cheese, by citing the ct that in 1890 there were 130 cheese coories in the State, producing 10,-200 pounds of cheese. Last year over were but thirty-four factories, a production of which was less than 10,000 pounds. In 1885 our exportation of meese was 118,000,000 pounds, and exportation had increased to 100,000,000 pounds.

Canada exported but 40,000,000. Last year, as a result of the exportation of bogus cheese, our exportations had fal-len to 61,000,000 pounds, while Canada's exportation had increased to 146,000,000

After some further remarks by Mr. Shaw of North Carolina, Mr. Clardy of Kentucky and Mr. Underwood of Alabama, Mr. Evans of Kentucky and Mr. Linney of North Carolina against the bill and Mr. Sauerhering of Wisconsin and Mr. Barney of Wisconsin favor of the bill, Mr. Dolliver closed the debate. He supported the bill on the grounds that it would tend to bring revenue into the treasury—the oleomargarine act, against which the identical arguments of today had been urged, produced $2,000,000. Secondly, the bill would furnish an appropriate legal protection against the adulteraurged, produced $2,000,000. Secondly, the bill would furnish an appropriate legal protection against the adulteration of the people's food. Filled cheese was a commercial fraud. Butter has been protected, why should not cheese be? Thirdly, he was in favor of giving the cow a fair chance and in protecting her in the production of butter and cheese.

Pending the reading of the bill for amendment, the committee rose. After the transaction of some minor business the House, at 5 o'clock, took a recess until 8 o'clock, the evening sestion to he for the consideration of private pension bills.

At the night session an attack was made on the Pension, Committee for recommending larger pension than the law allowed to the widows of officers. Mr. Talberts of South Carolina, Mr. Baker of New Hampshire, Mr. Hemingway of Indiana and Mr. McCall of Tennessee all protested against this course. The latter declared that he was willing to attend Friday night sessions if their object was the relief of the poor soldiers who fought in the trenches, but if their purpose was to vote large pensions to officers' widows he would not be present.

Mr. Pickler, chairman of the commit-their purpose was to vote large pensions to officers' widows he would not be present.

Mr. Plokler, chairman of the committee, defended the course of the committee, defended the course of the widow of Gen. Abner Doubleday, in which the committee recommended $100 a month because of exceptional circumstances surrounding that case. Mrs. Doubleday, he said, had been constantly at her husband's side during the rebellion, and had endured the actual hardships of compatigning. At Sumter she had stood guard. The bill was not acted upon, however, before the hour of adjournment was reached.

Among the other bills favorably acted upon was one to pension Josephine Foote Fairfax, the widow of the late Rear Admiral Fairfax, at the rate of $50 per month.

TALKING FOR A SUBSIDY.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Gen. Swayne of New York today made a statement to the House Committee on Commerce in the interest of the Spaulding Cable Company, which is competing with the Scrimser Company for a government subsidy for cable to the Hawalian Islands and Japan. Gen. Swayne resented the charge made against his company that it was under English influence and inspired by Sir John Pander.

English influence and inspired by Sir John Pender.

He stated that his company would meet any offer of terms made by the other company. The lowest subsidy he was willing to accept without consultation with the company was $160,000 a year for twenty years. It was unnecessary for such a company to extend its line, he said, because there were already sufficient cable facilities between Japan and China.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The House Committee on Appropriations to-day reported the bill for fortifications and other works of defense, for their armament and for heavy ordnance for trial and service for the fiscal year which begins next July. The bill rec ommends specific appropriation amounting to $5,842,000 and, in addi amounting to $5,842,000 and, in addition, authority is given to the Secretary of War to make contracts for the further expenditure of $5,542,000 by the engineer and ordnance departments, making the total authorized expenditure $11,384,000. The War Department estimates, on which the bill is based, amounted to $8,047,000.

The report accompanying the bill made by Mr. Hainer of Nebraska, says:

says:
"During the Forty-ninth Congress no appropriations were made on account of the fortifications, their maintenance or armament, and for the twelve fiscal years from 1875 to 1886, inclusive, the appropriation on this account averaged only $540,750 per annum, and only $463,500 per annum, and only $463,500 per annum for the fourteen years, including 1887 and 1888, for which two fiscal years no specific appropriations were made. The bill reported contains appropriations in continuance of the policy adopted by the Fiftieth Congress and by the Fifty-first, Fifty-second and Fifty-third Congresses. The appropriations by said sets for the eight fiscal years, 1889-96, aggregate $22,489,224, or an average of $2,811,128 per annum. "The principal appropriations in the present bill are as follows: Gun and mortar batteries, $5,280,000; stees for fortifications, $250,000; preservation and repair of fortifications, $10,000; armament for fortifications, $5,502,573; preving grounds, Sandy Hook, N. J., $38,000; watertown, Mass., arsenal, $43,500; ordnance and fortifications boards, $100,000.

THE FUNDING BILL. WASHINGTON, April 10.—The House Committee on Pacific Roads met today to consider the first printed copy of the bill prepared by the House and Senate bill prepared by the House and Senate sub-committees. Nothing was accomplished, but an informal discussion of the bill led to several amendments in its wording which do not affect the plan, but tend to prevent evasions of its interest. Considreable difference of opinion was shown upon the details of the measure, but it is predicted that the bill will be reported practically as it was introduced.

Mr. Boatner of Louisiana, who led the opposition to the Relliy bill, is not now in Congress, and it is not certain that any minority report will be made, although Mr. Hubbard of Missouri, a member of the committee, has introduced a bill for foreclosure on the property.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)
CHICAGO, April 11.—A dispatch to the Times-Herald from Washington says that at last President Cleveland has taken action in behalf of Cuba.
He has made to Spain a formal proposition that the good offices of the United States be accepted in mediation between that country and her rebellious colony in the West Indies This colony in the West Indies. This pro-posal was made in a cablegram of in-structions to the United States Minister at Madrid, Hannis Taylor, which was dispatched today. No diplomatic dispatch of equal importance has left this capital since Secretary Olney's note to the British government on the Venezuelan boundary continued. summer. It brings to a crisis the rela-tions between the United States and Spain, which have been unsettled since the outbreak of the Cuban rebellion. The note thoroughly explains the attitude of the United States and the reaons which have led to this action. The sons which have led to this action. The principal points of the dispatch are: First. The President offers the good offices of the United States government in mediation between Spain and the insurgents, with a view to a settle-the insurgents, with a view to a settle-ment of the trouble and the bringing about of peace in Cuba.

Second—The note recalls the corre-spondence between this government and Spain at the time of the ten years' war, when President Grant and Secretary Fish proposed medicates.

spindence between this government and Spain at the time of the ten years' war, when President Grant and Secretary. Fish proposed mediation, and the Spain and Secretary. Fish proposed mediation, and the Spain is operation, though declining to accept it, promised certain reforms in Cuba. The fact that the United States was in part instrumental in bringing about that settlement, and the charge that the Spanish government has not kept its promise, is given as a reason why the United States now has a right to be heard in the case.

Third—It is pointed out that the present rebellion in Cuba has assumed a much more serious aspect than any former insurrection, the insurgents having apparently taken possession of all the island except Havana and a small section of country roundabout. Spain is assured of the fact that the United States is actuated by only disinterested motives, and by a desire, through friendship, to bring about a more pacific and satisfactory state of affairs in the island. Spain is urged to accept our good offices in the spirit in which they are tendered, and the hope is expressed that the Spanish government will see its way to granting reforms in Gubs. The Fresident does not ask Spain to grant the independence of Cuba, nor does he suggest that home rule be accorded the people of that island. He leaves all these questions of method to be discussed after Spain shall have expressed a willingness to accept mediation.

CONSUL-GENERAL WILLIAMS RE-CONSUL-GENERAL WILLIAMS RE-

PORTED DEAD. NEW YORK, April 11.—A dispatch to the Herald from Madrid says the rumor is current here in the cafes and rumor is current nere in the cates and streets that Consul-General Williams has been murdered in Havana and his body dragged through the streets. Ex-citement prevails throughout the city in consequence of this report, but the authorities have no knowledge of any such event.

It is rumored that Maceo is dead, and that in a battle yesterday the rebels lost 500. No confirmation of the report can be obtained. OLNEY'S COURSE.

ST. LOUIS (Mo.,) April 10 .- A special to the Globe-Democrat from Washing-ton says that a document of great moment on Monday, and was carried by Secretary Olney in person to the White House. It has been before the President ever since. Several times the Secretary has been sent for and has been closeted with the President. Gen. Schofield, in whose knowledge of the interrelations of civil and military law the President has much confidence, has been called to these conferences.

The document relates to Cuba. It marks out the immediate course which Mr. Olney thinks the United States should take and to which he desires the president to commit himself. The President has deliberated upon the matter, and it is now thought he has reached a conclusion which will be made known to the full Cabinet today.

Various rumors prevail as to the exact character of this document. There is reason to believe that it is addressed to the Spanish government; that it deplores the existing conditions in Cuba, and that it expresses the earnest desire of this country for a speedy settlement on terms honorable to both Spain and the revolutionists. The document, it is said, suggests that President Cleveland act as mediator between Spain and the revolutionists.

A SEVERE ENGAGEMENT.

HAVANA, April 10.—Gen. Oliver, near Camajuani, Santa Clara, had a severe engagement with 600 insurgents under José Gonzales, the colored leader, resulting in the defeat of the insurgents with a loss of thirty killed and many wounded. The troops lost fifteen killed and twenty-six wounded.

The insurgents drew the troops into an ambuscade in a densely-wooded ravine. Behind earthworks completely masked with brush, the insurgents awaited the troops. Scouts sent forward by the Spanish commander were allowed to pass, but when the troops were well inside the ambuscade, a dynamite bomb was suddenly hurled into their ranks, killing several men and wounding a number of others, besides almost causing a panic. At first the Spanish infantry gave way, being taken so completely by surprise and seeing able to do more than fire apparently into the thick bushes, from which came the flashes of fame which told of the presence of the insurgents. Later, however, the troops were railled and made a splendid dash forward and up the side of the hills over the earthworks, driving the insurgents hefore them at the point of the bayonst and shooting them down as they fled. Thus the enemy was quickly mienced and the troops captured and rased the insurgents breastworks on both sides of the ambuscade, where they found a number of boxes of abandoned ammunition and several rifles, etc.

A company of gendarmes and volunteers engaged a detachment of insurgents under the leadership of Capitole, at the farm of Fermin, in Matanas. The insurgents left eight killed and the government force aptured a of arms. Later the Spaniards the insurgents and killed eighters of the enemy.

THE BERMUDA'S VOYAGE.

NEW YORK April 10.—The Herald.

NEW YORK, April 10.-The Herald

this morning publishes the following correspondence under date of Puerto Cortes, Honduras:

"The steamship Bermuda, which was detained in New York harbor on February 24 as she was preparing to leave for Cuba with a large party of patriots and ample supply of arms and amunition, has arrived here. The history of her voyage, ending in the safe disembarkation of the fillbusters and their armament, bristles with dramatic interest. The log was reeled off by one of the officers of the ship, who thid his story in a matter-of-fact way which rather served to intensify than dull its interest.

story in a matter-or-tact way which rather served to intensify than dull its interest.

"Til tell you the story,' he said, 'beginning with our departure from New York harbor. You know that on Saturday, March 14, we lay at anchor off Bedloe's Island. We had some trouble in engaging a crew, owing to the previous difficulty with the United States authorities. But after we had got our agent to work the thing went beautifully. Sunday morning following we weighed anchor and slipped through the narrows. During the night of Monday, March 16, we steamed up and down the coast at half-speed, and when the day dawned the Bernuda was a changed ship. Men had been set to work in the night to change her red funnel to black. This was necessary to avoid immediate identification in case we shound fall in with any Spanish man-of-war, and subsequent events proved the precaution was well-timed. "The sum rose brilliantly as if in favor of our enterprise, and as the sea was brightening under its first rays our hearts sank like lead at the spectacle presented a few miles to seaward. There in the half light hung a big Spanish man-of-war, She seemed not over two miles away, and I do not yet understand how it was that she let us go by unchallenged. We did nothing but watch her apprehensively until she sank out of our view on the edge of the horizon.

"On Tuesday morning the Bermuda

a stiff southerly gale roughened the sea. On the following day, Friday, the gale increased, the waves rose still higher, the ship labored considerable and then a market change came over higher, the ship abored considerable and then a markel change came over the landsmen—they were dreadfully seasick. On Saturday, however, the weather abated, but the engines broke down twice that day, once in the morning and once in the afternoon. This caused a delay of four hours altogether. During the lull the arms and ammunition were brought on deck and distributed to the Cubans.

"Fine weather and a smooth sea ushered in the Sabbath, and the Cubans busled themselves in making into small packages the munitions of war for greater facility in landing. The Bermuda passed Turk's island on the morning of the 23rd inst., and on Tuesday, the 24th, hove to, three miles off shore, about seven miles west of Baracoa, in the southeast end of Cubans. A reconnoitering party consisting of volunteers from the ship's crew, including the New York pilot and five Cubans, commanded by one of the ship's officers, went ashore.

"'A signal had been arranged with the ship. If the reconnoitering party found nothing suspicious, the signal was to be given for lowering the boats and effecting a landing. Fortune favored the expedition. The discipline was excellent and in a remarkably short time the cargo and men were safely ashore. It was 2 o'clock in the morning when the last boatload left the vessel.

"The moon was shining brightly and the stars shone gloriously. The hearts is the star and the stars shone gloriously. The hearts is the star and the stars shone gloriously. The hearts ashore. It was 2 o'clock in the morning when the last boatload left the vessel.

"The moon was shining brightly and the stars shone gloriously. The hearts of those on shore best high when they saw each little cargo come silently and swiftly from the ship to the shore. As boat after boat unloaded its cargo there was a disposition to cheer, but this was checked by the officers; who could not afford to lay their comrades liable to danger which it was not necessary to face just then. It was well for us that all our movements at this critical time were characterized with the utmost caution. Not a word was spoken as the men and arms were landed. Seven miles away, in Baracoa Harbor, lay six Spanish cruisers, and the slightest blunder would have imperited all our lives."

"The officer concluded his narartive hy stating that thirty minutes after the Cubans marched inland the Bermuda got under way again, a Spanish man-of-war came from the harbor and began throwing her search-light across the sea. Again fortune favored the Bermuda and she eacaped unnoticed."

AN IMPROVED FEELING.

grams from the Spanish legation in Washington assure this sovernment that President Cleveland will take no action on the Cuban resolutions adopted by Congress, and will not move at all in the matter until the war in Cuba takes some decisive turn. The improved feeling and the guarded tone of the Spanish press materially aids the authorities in checking anti-American demonstrations.

Sefor Sagasta, baving been questioned by his followers regarding the coming elections in Cuba, declares: "I consider it is carrying faction too far tobring into Parliament an alleged representation from Cuba. I deny absolutely the legality of the powers which summon hither those who will come to the next Parliament, styling themselved the electoral machinery, and where the electors can only move amid the bayonets of our solders in districts occupied by our troops, or with a passport delivered by the insurgents in the extensive territory they hold.

That the representation of Cuba in Parliament should have no other organitation of the last house was mooted. I therefore the last house was

A SERIOUS BATTLE.

NEW YORK, April 10.—A special to the Herald from Havana says that reports have reached there of a serious battle between the Spanish troops and a strong body of insurgents, who made an assault upon the government line in Havana province with the intention of crushing it. It is rumored that the insurgent less was very heavy.

"OPCANIZED BRIGANDAGE."

"ORGANIZED BRIGANDAGE." NEW YORK, April 10.—A Herald special from St. Petersburg says that the official Journal de St. Petersbourg, in the course of a strong article on Spain's omcial Journal de St. Fetersouls, in the course of a strong article on Spain's determined effort to suppress the insurrection in Cuba, says the insurrection is merely organized brigandage; hance the insurgents have no right to be considered belligerents. The revolters consist merely of bands who have overrun the country, giving themselves over to depredations and retiring when the troops arrive. It is sufficient, says the Journal, to state that the chiefs of the insurrection are negroes like Maceo, or strangers, like Roloff and Maximo Gomez. They have in their possession neither a coast line, nor any seaport placing them in connection with foreign navies.

A LETTER FROM GOMEZ.

A LETTER FROM GOMEZ. WASHINGTON, April 10.-Presiden

WASHINGTON, April 10. -President Palma of the Cuban delegation in the United States has made public the following letter received from Gen. Gomez, the insurgent leader, regarding war conditions on the island:

SAGUA, Cuba, March 10, 1896.

To Thomas Estrada Palma, Delegate of the Cuban Republic—The war continues more active and hard on account of the fierce character which Gen. Weyler has given to it. Our wounded are followed and assassinated cruelly. He who has the misfortune to fall into the hands of the Spanish troops perishes without fall.

The peaceful country people only find death and dishonor. Cuba today, as in 1863, only presents pools of blood dried by confiagrations. Our enemies are burning the houses to deprive us, according to them, of our quarters for spring. We will never use reprisals, for we understand that the revolution will never need to triumph by being cruel and sangulnary. We will go on with this war, the ultimate result of which you need not worry about, with success for the arms of the republic. We fight, when convenient to us, against an enemy tired out and without faith. My plans are well understood by my subordinates and each one knows what to do.

Give us cartridges so that our sol-ordinates and each one knows what to do.

"On Tuesday morning the Bermuda cast anchor off Assateague island, Virginia, and took on a quantity of lumber, eight boats and four seamen. The seamen were badly needed. By 2 o'clock in the afternoon she was heading northward again. Next day the Bermuda came to anchor early in the morning off Atlanik City. Here Gen. Garcia came on toard with seventy-two Cubans, and among them was heading southward with her band of Cubans who were in the very best of spirits.

"All went well until March 19, when a stiff southerly gale roughened the sea. On the following day, Friday, the for its base falseness and infamy can be either firm or lasting. Everything that Spain orders and sends to this land that she has drenched with the blood of her children, only serves to rum her power; and no man so well chosen as Gen. Weyler to represent in these times and in America the Spain of Phillip II. Much is said and written about the recognition of belligerency of the Cubans by the American government. This would be very advantageous to us, and is only doing justice, but as, when we rose against tyranny, we only counted on the strength of our arms and the firm resolution of victory, we follow our march unconcerned, satisfied that what is to happen will happen.

Fights Another of His Famous Duels.

Fatally Wounds the Emperor's Master of Ceremonies.

A Tragic Climax in Germany's Sensational Scandal.

Sent Out by the Count Against His Enemies High Officials Are Compromised.

BERLIN, April 10.—(By Atlantic Cable, Associated Press, Copyright 1896.) There was a sensation in court and military circles here this morning, when it was announced that another duel, growing out of the anonymous letter scandals, had taken place in the woods near Potsdam, and Baron Von Schrader, Master of Ceremonies of the Prussian court, had been shot by Count Von Kotz, formerly Court Chamberlain, who was acquitted on the charge of being the author of the anonymous of being the author of the anonymous

Count Von Kotz and Baron

Schrader used pistols. The latter was severely wounded in the abdomen. He was taken to the hospital, where his wound was pronounced to be of the most serious nature. His relatives were telegraphed for and promptly gathered at his hedside. Count Von Kotz's arrest has been ordered. His friends say that he will surrender to the authorities whenever called upon to do so.

This is the third duel of the series of about a dozen for which challenges were sent out last April by Count Von Kotz. He repeated today the announcement of his determination to keep on fighting his enemies, one by one, until he had settled accounts with all on his list.

Count von Kotz yesterday practiced for hours with a pistol on the estate of his brother-in-law, Count von Tresckow, at Friedrichsfelds, and finally succeeded in hitting the target, in size and shape the outline of a man, at every shot. He left Friedrichsfelds last night saying "Now I have got him." At his own quarters in Berlin. Count von Kotz today received the congratulated by scores of friends.

Baron von Schrader's wound was operated upon during the day, and the physicians in attendance came to the conclusion that there is no chance of his recovery. Emperor William has been notified of the duel. It is said Von Kotz will not be arrested until His Majesty has been heard from.

The scandal which gave rise to this series of duels began nearly five years ago, when high court personages, male and female, old and young, began receiving annonymous letters or postal cards, calling their attention to this or that escapade upon their own part, or on the part of relatives or friends.

Various wives became separated from the hard from the hard from the part of relatives or friends. Every effort possible was made by the police to find the guilty party, but in spite of this, the, anonymous tormentor was able to continue the work for about four years. The general opinion was that the vile letters were the work of a komma, but gradually this opinion changed and for some unexplained reason, su tress.

Upon trial he was acquitted of the charges brought against him. While Von Kotz was in prison, the tide of sympathy turned decidedly in his direction. Ugly whisperings were heard on all sides, his arrest was openly de-nounced as an outrage, and the names of a number of very high court per-sonages, including Duke Ernest Gunther of Schleswig-Holstein, the brother-in-law of Emperor William of Germany; in law of Emperor William of Germany; in fact, some persons even had the audacity to cast the side lights of suspicion upon a higher person than Duke Gunther, though, it would seem, without just ground for so doing. When Count von Kotz was released from prison he promptly sent out challenges to a dozen of those whom he believed to have been implicated in a plot to ruin him, in order to save the reputation of the high personage, wheever he may be, who is looked upon as being the real author of the anonymous communications.

Gruenwald, early during the morning of April 13 last, between Count von Kotz and Baron won Reisch. The former had insisted upon severe conditions, namely, that shots would be exchanged until one of the contestants war so hadly wounded as to be unable to continue. Seven shots were exchanged, with the result that both the Count and Baron had more or less severe fish wounds. But at the eighth shot, Von Kotz fell with a bullet in the loil. He was taken to a hospital, and for some time his life was despaired of an every other when the statement of the same anomal time his life was despaired of the same anomal time that the would for some time his life was despaired of the same anomal time that the would for some time his life was despaired of life. This is practically the case, although the Count walked with greater ease than was expected.

There was some talk of sending Count von Kotz and his opponent to prison for fighting the due, but there was such popular sympathy for Von Kotz that the Emperor overlooked the matter on the Count's reported promise to give up his pian of fighting the rest of the series of duels.

However, in June last Von Kotz met Baron von Schrader on the field of honor, wounded himself. For this Von Kotz and on July 13-he gave himself up to the governor of that place, and served his sentence, but he was treated with the greatest consideration, and vit was again reported on his release that he had promised not to fight another duel. By this time Von Kotz had become quite a popular hero and his enemies felt very uncomfortable. It is possible that this would have been the latter the court chamberlain entrusted a bundle of important documents to be used in drawing up the case for the defense. Besides, in preparing this work; it was ancessary to employ detectives and make many secret inquiries. Condemned Murderer Swallows Morphine—Death of Gov. Jones of Nevada—Suspect Released. Loss of the Blairmore,

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) SAN FRANCISCO, April 10,-One of age of an ocean steamer arrived from Australia on the Mariposa. John Nagel was the passenger, and he carried his fortune in a small canvas bag. His garb would never give rise to the sus-picion that he was worth thousands of dollars. He wore a pair of duck trousers and a coat of similar texture, the latter being held together by a hundred threads. The sack he carried contained scores of diamonds of all sorts and threads. The sack he carried contained scores of diamonds of all sorts and sizes, which he had gathered in the wilds of Western Australia.

When Nagel boarded the Mariposa at Sydney he handed over his bag of diamonds to Purser-Smith, who gave him a receipt for it and dismissed the matter from his mind. The purser's troubles had only begun, for the diamond king of the steerage haunted the office morning, noon and night, inquiring as to the safety of his precious stones. Finally Nagel could stand the strain no longer. He stood the separation from his diamonds until Honolulu was reached, and then he handed Smith the receipt and received his precious bag in exchange and disappeared with it into the steerage.

Then the life of Steerage Steward Calligan became a burden to him. Nagel hid his jewels in various places and changed his hiding-place almost every hour. Everybody in the steerage knew about the wonderful bag and its contents, and all the while the owner thought he was very secretive. For the last two days of the voyage Nagel kept his fortune in his trunk under his berth, and then kept watch on it, refusing to leave his vigil to go to his meals. The latter were brought to him by the steward to prevent the passenger from starving.

Shortly after the Mariposa docked Nagel left the steamer with his bag and soon disappeared from the dock. Of his future movements he would say nothing further than he was going to remain in America, as this country was good enough for him. He is about 60 years of age, and has been a diamond-hunter most of his life. His fortune represents the labor of many weary days and nights, and he thinks he has made enough to enable him to settle down.

The doctor, not deeming "gentleman." a sufficiently-explicit answer to the question of the immigrant's occupation, asked him what he did to earn a living. The reply was, "Nothing."

Somewhat amused at the calm assurance of the man, Dr. Blue asked him how much he was worth. SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

CARSON (Nev.,) April 10.—Gov. John E. Jones was born in Wales, December 5, 1840. He came to the United States with his parents and settled in Iowa in 1856. He was educated in the public schools, finishing with a four-years' course in the Iowa State University. He was a school teacher in his early manhood and afterward, like most western men, followed mining and such vocations as came to his hand in Colorado, Wyoming and Nevada. In 1833 he held the office of United States Deputy Internal Revenue Collector, residing at Eureka, Nev. In 1838 he was elected Surveyor-General of the State by the Republican party. He was reliected in 1890, serving until he took office as Governor in 1856. He was elected Governor by the silver party. He will be succeeded by Lieut-Gov. Reinhold Sadler, now acting Governor. News of his death caused great sorrow in this city and section.

death caused great sorrow in this city and section.

Gov. Jones came to this city last january suffering from what was diagnosed to be cancer of the stomach. He was placed under the care of Dr. Hirchfelder, but he did not improve, and Drs. Cook and Cook were called in. Under new treatment the Governor improved for a few days, but the improvement was only temporary. He grew steadily worse, and several weeks ago his physicians told him that nothing could be done for him. The Governor's death was therefore not unexpected. Mrs. Jones was present when he died. The arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

SACRAMENTO, April 10.—At a meeting of the State Horticultural Society, held in this city today it was developed in the different discussions that the fruit-crop would be unusually large. The growers said there would be a scarcity of almonds and late peaches, those crops having been damaged to some extent by frost.

The afternoon session was given up largely to a discussion of smudging to protect against frost. The material mostly used consisted of bales of straw soaked in tar, for the reason that this produced a very dense smoke. All those who spoke on the subject were of one mind, as to the good accomplished. The consensus of opinion was that this process protected against the severe frosts.

Grangers' Bank Liquidation.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The liquidation of the Grangers' Bank is slowly but steadily going on. Already the creditors of the bank have been paid 50 cents on the dollar, and all the small depositors have been settled with in full. The collections are slow, owing to the dull times, but it is expected that another dividend will soon be forthcoming. The bank has a small incubus on its shoulders in the shape of its present quarters, for which it has to pay a rental of $50 per month. Adams county, Ohio, in 1845. His father was an attorney and a man of means and intended to give his son a college education, but the war broke out and the lad, following his father, entered the army as a drummer boy.
His father commanded the Seventh Ohio Volunteers at Shiloh. After the war young Cockerill became a printer, and did his first work on the Scion of Temperance. After considerable experience on the local press of Dayton and Hamilton he went to Cincinnati where he worked as reporter, city editor and managing editor on the Enquirer.

In 1877 he went to Europe and accomme

McKinley the Nation's Bulwark. SAN BERNARDINO, April 9, 1896 .-SAN BERNARDINO, April 9, 1896.—
(To the Editor of The Times) I am in favor of the Hon. William McKinley for President of the United States because he is the advocate of protection to the American people, and to our manufacturers, and is an honest, upright man, in both public and private life.

right man, in both public and private life.

William McKinley has won a host of friends among all classes of people, regardless of party, and his past life has been instructive, fascinating and historical, and he is essentially a man of the people. His rise from a lad born in an Ohio village to the position of one of the foremost statesmen of the times, is full of interest to the American public. He is still in the prime of a vigorous and developing manhood. He presents alike to young and old the possibilities of our free institutions when supplemented by patriotism, integrity, courage, perseverance, and an inbounded faith in the economic policies which best promote the welfare of our people and country. The life of McKinley has been one of devotion to duty, principle, and public service. He began the conflict of life on the nation's battlefield, and, while in the Congress of the United States, when he would always meet with our post, of which I am proud of being a member. He was polite and friendi to all.

McKinley stands today the principal living exponent on the protection side of the great economic question which divides the two political parties. Back of him we find a glorious array of American statesmen who have thought as he thinks, believed as he believes, and who have, at various stages of the nation's history, taught the doctrines that he teaches. Deeply imbedded in the foundations of the Republic as are the principles of protection, the work of demonstrating theatruth, of these principles, beyond the reach-of-doubt. William McKinley has won a host of fell to the lot of McKinley. His tariff law stood on our statute books as the industrial Gibratter of the nation. When it was attacked, our industries were threatened; when it was taken by the enemy, many of our great industries fell. Then ame of McKinely will adways be associated with the wisest, broadest, and best American fiscal legislation of the country; with legislation that promoted enterprise, stimulated commerce, employed labor, increased wages, and did much to make the people contented and prosperous. Whatever the future may have in store for this stalwart American cftizen, his name will always be synonymous to the myriad bread-winners throughout the Union, with fair wages, plenty of work, and good times.

It is the pride and boast of Americans that this is a country of self-made men. However humble may be the position of a man, it is within his power in this land of equality to attain the highest honors within the gift of his fellow-citizens. That the heart of this man should beat in unison with those who toil, with the millions engaged in the gainful occupations, is natural enough when we read and hear of his past life and work for protection. He has marched in the ranks side by side with his comrade, the private soldier. He has tasted poverty and learned lessons of frugality, as a young and struggiling country lawyer. He has had an insight into the woes and sufferings of sorrowing humanity. His infuence and sympathy have always been on the side of those who toil for daily bread. Surely we have here varied and useful lessons, experiences calculated to develop the broadest humanity, the deepest sympathy for labor, and the most earnest endeavor to improve the condition and elevate the standard of that vast army of our fellow-beings whose weekly or monthly wage forms the only barrier between happy and contented homes and absolute penury. That a man thus born and with such experiences should believe in a policy which has done so much for labor, as some do in religion, is not a matter of surprise; and th

Rader and Ring Rule. LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(To the Editor of The Times:) A little incident has just taken place in city politics which adds one more to the "things to be remembered" by the voters of the city when the "slate" is being made up for the next election. I feel it my duty as a citizen in favor of cleen government to submit a few cause of the following ruling?

(Evening Express, April 8:) On the 23d of the month the Southern Pacific will make a new rate on wool between California terminal points and the Atlantic Coast. The rate on wool in grease minimum weight, 20,000 pounds, will be $1 per hundred weight. On scoured wool, any quantity, the rate will be $1.25 per hundred weight. This is an increase of 25 per cent. in rates. This is only one of the many incidents that call forcibly to mind how much the Southern Pacific Company has the welfare of Southern California producers and manufacturers at heart.

Mr. Ernest Kenna, at the Trask Fish Co., No. 510 West Second street, St. Louis, Mo., volunteered the following: "I have used some of those Tabules, too. Mr. Connell recommended them to me. As a general thing, I enjoy the best of health, but once in a while, through constipation and billousness, I have dull headaches that annoy me a good deal. At billousness, I have dull heanaches that annoy me a good deal. At such times I take Ripans Tables and think they are the finest thing on earth for constipation or troubles arising from a poor digestion. I am only too glad to be able to give them my indorsement." Of late nations are showing the result of the strain which has been telling

Of late nations are showing the result of the strain which has been telling upon the world's people for the past five years. It seems to be a kind of universal plague that has been cropping out in India, china, Europe and America. If this state of things continues it is the men we will have to look to, it is the men we will have to depend upon. Fortunately for America the vast majority of men have their own firesides, and even if some of these firesides are mortgaged they are none the less dear, and men will fight for their firesides when they won't fight for their boarding-house. That brings us to the point of introducing one of the stanch men of Oregon, whose residence is in Newport, Oregon, and who owns his own fireside and who knows how to fight.

William Ennis is esteemed in Newport, and rightly so, because all his fellows can depend upon his word—his word is as good as his bond. When in Newport I spoke to Mr. Ennis and he was pleased to say to me that he recommends the native remedy, Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, because from his own experience he knows it is a good medicine and deserves high commendation. As his picture will show, he was not on the verge of the grave, yet it is a fact that he was in need of a blood remedy, for his blood was disordered. He felt tired and weary and unable to work as much as he desired. He used several bottles of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla. It cleansed his blood, regulated his liver and kidneys and put him in the condition in which he is now in, so that he is glad to recommend Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla as a good spring medicine.

It is a fact worth mentioning at this point that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla contains no lodide of potassium or mineral drugs, and therefore can be taken by any lady or gentleman without expecting pimples on the face, blood blotches on the body or uneasiness whatsoever. He or she who takes Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla will be sure to feel better for the taking.

Adherents of the Great Ohioan Assembled in Force.

Enthusiastic Mass-meeting Music Hall Last Evening.

Eloquent Speeches by Silver-tongue Orators—'McKinley and Protec-tion" the Slogan—Hope Cen-tered in His Nomination.

All that goes to make a political mass-meeting of the first magnifude—a magnificent audience, tremendous enthusiasm, speech-making that set on fire the hearts of the listeners, tumult-uous applause and some stirring cheers—all these were combined last evening in Music Hall, when in a public gathering of the McKinley Club, the name of the great Ohioan was presented to the aupdience as the peo-ple's choice for a Republican Presiden-

There is abundance of space in Music Hall and it was all utilized, last evening, so that had the place been a the-ater the "S.R.O." sign would have been strictly in order. Men stood in rows a dozen deep behind the last sec-tion of chairs in the hall and listened with rapt attention to the masterly speeches made by the orators of the evening, who, without exception struck the keynote of the meeting when struck the keynote of the meeting when the glorious slogan of "McKinley and Protection" was sounded by them. Every reference to Ohio's favorite son, or as was aptly said by a speaker, the "favorite son of the United States," was greeted with such demonstrations of approval that the very walls shook with the vibrations of the mighty applause.

A brass band and colored glee club furnished the musical part of the programme, although these somewhat artificial aids to enthusiasm were not at all necessary in the production of that article. The very air was surcharged with the electricity of excitement and the enthusiasm of the leaders of the gathering was contagious, so that from the rostrum to the rear end of the spacious hall flashed a current of excited feeling that was only relieved when a burst of eloquence from the silvertongued orators diew from the audience the applause that resembled at times the mighty roar of an all-conquering avalanche.

"Six and thirty years ago the band of illustrious patriots assembled, who made up the second Republican National Convention ever held. The circumstances and surroundings under which that convention were held are not unlike those that will be connected with the national convention which will convene at St. Louis in this, the year 1896, Then the entire country was groaning under a Democratic administration of misrule and mismanagement. Under this administration the furnace fires in the factories were smothered and the wheels of progress were stopped. The agricultural workers of the land were in distress, without a proper market for the bountful products of the fertile soil. Then, as now, the revenues of the government were not sufficient to defray its actual running expenses. Then as now bonds were issued to meet the deficiency. But there is this difference in the situation: The country then had more years of Democratic mismanagement to recover from than it now has,

"Under these discouraging conditions, the twentieth Republican convention gave to the country for its Presidential nominee Abraham Lincoln (applause,) and for its motto 'Protection,' which policy was incorporated into its platform. With that platform and that nominee the party roved on to overwhelming victory. Since that time 'protection' has been an article of faith in the Republican party. It has been a central idea, a part of the party's creed, that the United States government should protect the country's industries, protect its labor and its inborers.

"We, as a younger generation of Republican leging were interested in the supplicant in the republican leging with the publicant in the republicant in the publicant is publicant in the supplicant in the publicant is publicant in the supplicant in the republicant is party in dustries, protect its labor and its laborers.

of his name brings joy to the heart of the farmer, the machinist, and the laboring man everywhere. We believe in and love McKinley. (Applause.) That name stands for the sentiment that the American flag shall float, free and unmolested, throughout the land, not to be removed or displaced by any emblem of any country on earth. It stands for an American dollar, that shall be in every country as good as any country's dollar. Perhaps the greatest menace this country is now threatened with is the wealthy corporations are issuing orders to prod with hot irons the McKinley cause. We thank God that these cormorantic corporations are against us, and thank God we can win without them." (Applause.)

GEN. CAMPBELL'S ORATION.

GEN. CAMPBELL'S ORATION. Gen. A. B. Campbell, popularly known as the "Kansas Cyclone," upon being introduced by the chairman, spoke in introduced by the chairman, spoke in part as follows:

"I wish I had the power to make the speech that ought to be made to this magnificent assembly here this evening. We have reason to be proud that we are part of that great, powerful and grand king that rules over the destinles of this nation—the royal people of the United States. Our government differs from that of any European nation. When centuries ago the people of England wanted freedom, and liberty of conscience, they came across the sea in

When centuries ago the people of England wanted freedom, and liberty of conscience, they came across the sea in big ships and founded a nation of people where every man might be a king and every woman a queen. I admit that in my experience of several years, I have seen some rather tough-looking kings and queens. (Laughter.) But, of course, there are none here this evening. This is a Republican gathering. (Great laughter.)

"Never will the kingship of the American people be more completely demonstrated than when Maj. William McKinley (cheers) is unanimously nominated as the Republican party's choice of Presidential candidates. And that demonstration will culminate when he is elected by the royal people to the Presidency of this nation. Already is he nominated in the hearts of the people to this great office. That is not saying that other and many good Republicans do not favor other candidates than McKinley. The fact that difference of opinion is allowable in this country makes our government possible. Many men of the party, however, are against Maj. McKinley, because, as past bosses' of the party, they fear their lnability to manage cause, as past 'bosses' of the party, they fear their inability to manage McKinley, and the consequent loss to them of their prestige as manipulators. And the bulk of the opposition to McKinley has developed largely among these 'bosses'.

the enthusiasm of the leaders of the gathering was contagious, so that from the rostrum to the rear end of the spacious half flashed a current of excited feeling that was only relieved when a burst of eloquence from the suiders of eloquence from the suiders of the might have that resembled at times the might have that resembled at times the might have the resembled at times the might have the resembled at times the might have the resembled at the state of the protection," and its foremost advocate and exponent, such cheering as correlated naught but the essence of enthusiastic admiration for the man who "is already as the Republican Personal stready as the Republican Personal stream and the stream and looking into his speech, and the coming stream was called to order by Maj. Redding, who announced as vice-presidents of the meeting, the following gentiemen, who, as their names were called, took seats on the platform.

Maj. McKinley's life and career, it was stated by Mr. Flint that at the age of seventeen years, McKinley enlisted in the Union army; at nineteen years of age he was made lieutenant, and was mustered out and breveted with the rank of major when twenty-one. He served seven terms in Congress, as the representative of a Congress district in Ohlo, and was twice elected to fill the office of governor of that State. Twice he has been mentioned as a Presidential candidate, in 1888 and 1892, when, at the Republican convention in the latter year, a speaker in nominating a candidate turned to McKinley, saying: "It will be your turn next, Maj. McKinley."

Mr. Flint, after a selection by the McKinley colored glee club, introduced to the audience ex-United States District Attorney M. T. Allen, who spoke in part as follows:

SPEECH OF M. T. ALLEN.

Following Gen. Gordon's speech, W R. Bacom introduced a set of resolu-tions having to do with the propriety of holding a county convention instead of six district conventions. The resoluof six district conventions. The resolu-tions, which were unanimously adopted by the meeting, are here given:

Among other things the story says that in prefacing the confession, which covers in full three newspaper pages, written in Holmes's own hand writing and detailing with a minute-ness that is simply at times revolting, the arch-mutilator and author of twenty-seven murders, as he admits himself to he states with something like pathos that he does so simply that he ma tain enough money to educate his Holmes writes of his blood-curdling tain enough money to educate his boy.

Holmes writes of his blood-curdling atrocities with an abandon that simply appals one. Not one grain of remorse seems to enter into the construction of that document. He says:

"I was born with the devil in me. I could not help the fact that I was a murderer no more than the poet can help the inspiration to sing, nor the ambition of an intellectual man to be great. This inclination," continues Holmes, "came to me early in life. I remember when a mere lad my ambition was to study medicine that I might know the relative effects of poisonous gases, that I might fully become acquainted with their uses, and learn to be an expert in handling them.

"I am convinced that since my imprisonment I have changed woefully and gruesomely from what I formerly was in feature and in figure. From what I can see I believe fully that I am growing to resemble the devil; that the osseous parts of my head and face are gradually assuming that elongated shape so pronounced and in what is called the degenerate head, and the the osseous parts of my head and face are gradually assuming that elongated shape so pronounced and in what is called the degenerate head, and the similitude is almost completed. In fact, so impressed am I with this belief that I am convinced that I have no longer anything human in me."

Holmes's confession, from this on, speaks of his early experience of his boyhood days on the farm up in Vermont and the life he led until he entered the college to study medicine in Michigan. It was not until after he was graduated, fully equipped with the knowledge of poisons and the easiest way to sever the simple thread of life that Holmes began his career as a murderer and mutilator. When he began he admits himself he was ruthless and never once halted until he had taken twenty-seven lives.

"And I would have committed in other murders," he added, "had not certain occurrences intervened."

Positively one of the worst, most revolting and disgusting crimes this archmutilator ever committed was one he speaks of in a chapter devoted to his boy, the son of his first wife. The only explanation he offers is that he did it simply to gratify his love for mutilation.

"It was shortly after I was married,"

"It was shortly after I was married." he decaires, "and our boy was but a youngster. I called him from the road where he was frollokining about like aninnocent, with a lot of other lads, and took him out to a rear barn. I don't know what it was that possessed me, but I took a surgical knife along with me. It was simply the craving of the murderer within me that inspired me to make a subject of my little one."

With the utmost abandon and with here and there an expressed sigh of regret, Holmes then tells how he went through the operation of mutilating his own son. Finished with that, Holmes felt satisfied, and did not murder his boy outright.

Nicaraguans Are Dissatisfied President Zelaya's Inactivity. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

CORINTO (Nicaragua, April 9, Galveston, April 10 .- (By Atlantic Ca. ble. Associated Press Copyright, 1896.) For several hours on April 6 and 7 the insurgent troops under the command of Gen. Boca, president of the revolutionary government of Nicaragua, canon aded the troops sent by the govern-ment of Honduras at Chinandega. The bombardment, however, did not dislodge the soldiers, who were sent by Hon-duras to the assistance of the govern-ment of President Zelaya. At El Viego, an insurgent force from Leon, flanked Nagarote and threatened to attack Managua, the capital of Nicaragua. The government troops have been twice engaged with the force of the Leonists. A few men have been killed on both sides, but President Zelaya's force was not strong enough to drive back the enemy, and it returned to Managua unsuccessful.

enemy, and it returned to Managua unsuccessful.

A small detachment of Zelaya's troops occupied Soucre, a small town about twenty-four leagues out of Leon, the headquarters of the revolutionists.

The British warship, Comus, Capt. Dyke, having on board over two hundred officers and men, has arrived here, but she will leave Corinto today for San Juan del Sur. It is expected, however that the Comus will return here on Friday and remain at this port until the revolution in Nicaragua is decided one way or the other. The only real fighting done so far was in the earlier stages of the revolution, and it seems to have sickened both armies. The Leonists have the largest quantity of arms, and they are of a more modern description than those of President Zelaya, but the latter has, up to the present, suffered from lack of ammunition, aithough he has hitherto been well supplied with money from Managua and Grenada, in particular, but there is already much grumbling at the inaction of President Zelaya's army, and threats have been heard to cut off supplies of funds unless something tangible is accomplished. The United States cruiser Alert is still here.

SENATOR WHITE KNOWS BETTER

A dispatch from a Washington correspondent, via San Francisco, published in our telegraph columns yesterday, contains the following:

"Senator White and Representative McLachlan are in a deeper quandary than ever as to which of the two schemes to advocate; whether to urge an appropriation for San Pedro alone, to ask for the reinstatement of the or to ask for the reinstatement of the appropriations for both, as originally contained in the House bill. "The reports of the mass-meetings held in Los Angeles last night, were wired to Senator White and Mr. Mc-Lachlan. Both reports bubbled over with enthusiasm, but were widely conflicting as to details. The advoconnicting as to details. The advo-cates of two harbors, wired that their meeting was attended by several thousand, while the 'other crowd' had only a few hundred. The San Pedro advocates, on the other hand, wired that they had 5000 at their meet-ing, while but a handful attended the other meeting. There seems to be other meeting. There seems to be a slight discrepancy in these two stories, but the Senate committee is not in a position to correct it, nor are White and McLachlan quite clear as to what to do, or whom to do it for."

The correspondent may be right in stating that Mr. McLachlan is "in a quandary" and that Mr. McLachlan is not "quite clear as to what to do or m to do it for," as recent developments have forced the conviction upon his constituents that Mr. McLachla has a facility for getting into a quandary, when to the average citizen of clear vision and right intentions, the proper course is absolutely clear. We are, however, convinced that the corre-

Senator White does not need to await with bated breath and confused mind, every ebullition of fictitious sentiment that may be wafted to him over the wires from Los Angeles. As a clear-headed, broad-minded and loyal citizen of Los Angeles, he knows just and has doubtless made up his mind as to the best method of presenting their case before the Senate. White is well aware that what nine this community desire—what they have been persistently striving for during the past five or six years-is a free rater harbor for Los Angeles at a site that has been thrice recomsite to which all competing railroads would have access. Loyal citizens of Los Angeles have never wavered for a moment in this view of the question in spite of the manifold attempts that have been made by hired tools of Mr.
Huntington to deceive and cajole them.
They know that the granting of an appropriation by the United States government, even were it only $1000, for the commencement of work upon for the commencement of work upon at Mr. Huntington's site, would be the permanent abandonment of all hope for the construction of a ep-water harbor, and would further be the death knell of our com-

SOUTHERN PACIFIC LOGIC.

In a long communication from William Hood, chief engineer of the South ern Pacific Company, (of Kentucky) written last month for the purpose of endeavoring to counteract the good work that has been done by the Free Harbor League, (of Los Angeles) that gentleman, in his vain effort to show that other roads could obtain access to Mr. Huntington's wharf, makes a 'bad break." He is trying to show that his employers control more of the water front at San Pedro than they do his argument he says:

"No other railroad can reach this deep-water harbor near Point Fermin without building across or along the right-of-way, and tracks of the South-ern Pacific Railroad, perhaps under considerable legal difficulties." If this were not disgusting, as an insult to an intelligent community, it would be excruciatingly ridiculous. Mr. Hood's argument in brief is this: Should the government build a deep-water harbor for the people at San Pedro, other railroads would encounter legal difficulties in getting over the Southern Patide water, but sh the government build a private harbon for Mr. Huntington at his private site, shut in by high bluffs, the approach to Mr. Huntington's private wharf would be open and free to all. It might well be suggested to Mr. Huntington that in his strenuous efforts to befog and bamboozle the peoto render more plausible the clumsy prevarications of his engineering experts. As a hoodwinker of the public, Mr. Hood makes as dismal a failure as his employer, Mr. Huntington, does benevolent Svengali.

No one can accuse James S. Clarkson-sometimes of New York, sometimes of Towa-of halting betw opinions. He holds two, but he doesn't them. When he is in New York, he i a strong advocate of the gold standard but when he is out in the wild and woolly West, he acknowledges himself "profoundly impressed" with the iming more nor less than a "trimmer, but voters in these days have no us can do is to trim his sails, head his bark for the prairie, and stay there

Let each of the tickets voted at the primaries contain, printed in plain type, the name of the Presidential candidate who is the choice of the voter casting it, and for whom the delegate, if elected, will vote in convention That is to say, let the Presidential preferences of the delegates voted for be plainly expressed on the ballots cast For instance, if John Smith is a candidate for delegate to the District and State conventions, and if he is a Mc-Kinley man, let the ballots to be cast or him have "For President-Maj. McKinley" printed conspiciously across the top. This plan will greatly assist voters in voting for the candidates of their choice.

The Southern Pacific strikers and heelers are now trying to make it appear that the recommendations of three separate boards of government engineers are of less moment than the recommendation of that more or less distinguished civil engineer, Collis P. Huntington, In point of fact, Huntington's recommedations do appear to have more weight with the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors than those of government engineers, the wishes of the people, and the plain intentions of Divine Providence, in creating a natural barbor at San Pedro.

If this were not an exceptionally intelligent community, there might be a chance for the agents of Mr. Huntington to create the impression that it does not matter where the deep-water county convention is an institution ton to create the impression that it well-known to every voter. Its objects and its work are easily under-harbor is located, and that it would be

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. The play of "Friends," which first estab-ished Edward Milton Royle's capacity both as an actor and a playwright, had its first presentation here this season at the Los Angeles Theater last night, and there was abundant evidence at hand to convince the student of the drama as well as the mere looker-on at the passing show that Mr. Royle's play has that lasting quality which is play has that lasting quality which is a better tribute to the merits of a theatrical creation than all the praise that may be showered upon it by the authoractor's friends and admirers. The luminous feature of "Priends" is its beautiful, clean, true sentiment. In this age of decadence—this era of the drama which is fieshly, morbid, unclean and ataint with all manner or unfragrant and unwholesome things, "Friends" is as sweet as the odor of lilacs bloom across country hedge rows. Its atmosphere is pure and the sunshine gleams through it. It is a play that makes men and women the better for having seen it, and, having said this, what greater compliment can a writer pay it?

It is not new to us, but as was said at the outset, it has the quality of lastingness, and those of us who have seen it a dozen times or so were as ready with the smile and the wet eye-lash last night to pay it those tributes of applause as we were when its beautiful story of love and loyalty and tenderness, of man to man was first unfolded to us in seasons agone. "Friends" as played by Mr. Royle applause as we were when its beautiful story of love and loyalty and tenderness of man to man was first unfolded to us in seasons agone.

"Friends" as played by Mr. Royle and his clever people is an object lesson in stage naturalness. Although there is no little melodrama in the piece, it is not unreal and is not dragged in by the heels. Things happen with continuity and as they might happen in this flesh and blood life of ours, and all this goes to make it a thing of keen enjoyment to the lover of a seeming which does not drain the dregs of realism nor tear passions to testers. Mr. Royle's Jack Paden is as breezy and engaging a chap as we wot of on our stage. He is a most lovable fellow, is Jack Paden, such a one as one would like to go fishing with along shaded streams where the cat-birds cry in the thickets, or camp with on the mountain tops, or anywhere else where one gets close enough to his fellow-man to hear his heart beat. In a word, Jack Paden is a thoroughbred. Mrs. Royle's Marguerite Otto is as refreshing and beautiful a performance as ever. All the work of the part is done with a neatness of touch and such an air of sincerity that one loses sight of the actress in the good woman that is pictured with such sweet charm.

Miss Lyons makes the most of the part of her two big boys' "little mother," and Mr, Henderson's playing of the role of the planist is still rendered memorable by his nore than creditable piano playing.

the New Hampshire Convention. The Workingmen's Protective Tariff League.

SAN DIEGO; April 10.-(Special Correspondence.) There are two things that the well-informed voters of the Seventh Congress District now understand thoroughly. One is that U. S. Grant, Jr., as first reported in The Times dispatch today, has, in a letter to the McKinley League of Sacramento, declared himself unequivocally in favor of protection and McKinley, and signi-fied his willingness to represent Cali-fornia as delegate-at-large at the National Republican Convention, if called upon to do so. The second fact is that Congressman W. W. Bowers is in hearty accord with the move to elect Mr. Grant as delegate-at-large and that the most ardent supporters of Mr. Bowers in the Seventh District are enthusiastically desirous of heaving Mr. Grant (Series). lastically desirous of having Mr. Gran sent to St. Louis. They firmly believe that Mr. Grant's candidacy will not only be of benefit to the interests of this State, but will also be of help to that Mr. Grant's candidacy will not only be of benefit to the interests of this State, but will also be of help to Mr. Bowers. It seems necessary to repeat these facts because a misapprehension appears to exist, either feigned or real, in some quarters of this Congress District that the candidacy of U. S. Grant, Jr., is intended as an action hurtful to Mr. Bowers in his congressional campaign. To such extreme lengths has this absurd idea been carried that a marked editorial in the Santa Ana Blade has been circulated among Republican leaders, setting forth a state of affairs that is really laughable to those aware of the true political situation. The Blade avers that the Los Angeles Times is booming Mr. Grant entirely for the purpose of weakening Bowers. This misinformed journal is ridiculed by the Bowers leaders here because of its ignorance. The earnest desire of Congressman Bowers to see Mr. Grant go to St. Louis as delegate-at-large is rather strong proof of the Blade's mistake.

Preparatory plans for the organization of a strong, permanent McKinley club are being matured. Many of the strongest Republicans in the city have enrolled themselves as follows: "We, the undersigned, citizens of San Diego county, hereby enroll ourselves as members of a McKinley club. The object of this organization shall be to assist in promoting the nomination of William McKinley of Ohio for the office of President of the United States, and after his nomination to poll as large a vote as possible in the election." This statement is signed by such prominent citizens as Gen. Eli H. Murray, ex-Postmaster H. M. Kutchin, George W. Hazard, George W. Dickinson, Judge Irving B, Dudley, Hon. Moses A. Luce, A. L. Ross, Capt. M. Sherman, A. G. Nason, F. F. Adams, W. H. Drummond, W. S. Earle, W. J. Balley, Frank S. Jennings, C. Fred Henking, W. H. C. Ecker, W. E. Parrett and many others. The enrolled and an organization meeting will soon be held.

The dispatch from San Francisco saying that the name of U. S. Grant, Jr., for delegate-at-large f and an organization meeting will soon be held.

The dispatch from San Francisco saying that the name of U. S. Grant, Jr., for delegate-at-large from this State to the St. Louis convention is received with marked favor on all sides in that city causes happiness down this way. It is pleasant reading to the McKinley men to note in that dispatch that "Grant's election by the convention is confidently predicted, as it is, believed to be impossible to stem the tide in his favor, and few Republicans of any shade will have the hardihood to oppose the choice of the son of Gen. Grant, when that son is himself a substantial citizen, a stalwart Republican and a firm friend of Maj, McKinley." Mr. Grant's letter of Thursday to the McKinley League of Sacramento adds force to the dispatch quoted.

What the Returns Show.

What the Returns Show A Washington special to the New York Tribune says: "Speaking of the real significance of the popu-lar movement in the Republican party to look to protection as the remedy for present ills rather than mark the personal triumph of a man. I do not mean to say that Mr. McKinley as a man is not worthy of the highest honor the people can bestow. On the contrary, I regard him as one of the cleanest and ablest of our public men of the day. But look at his principal competitors. When has a better field of candidates for a Presidential nomination ever *appeared? Mr. Reed has petitors. When has a better field of candidates for a Presidential nomination ever appeared? Mr. Reed has great force and attractiveness and Mr. Allison and Gov. Morton are men of marked sagacity and conservatism. If it were an ordinary contest among men, would Mr. McKinley walk away with his competitors as he is now doing? By no means. It is no disparagement of him to say that in such circumstances he would be unable to contest a New England State with Mr. Reed or take the Northwest away from Mr. Allison. But in the popular conception he embodies the principle of protection and that is making him invincible. The people for three years now have been groaning and sweating under burdens of reverses and distresses, and they have come to believe that they can only be relieved by a return to a higher tariff and a full treasury. Therefore the demand for McKinley, His is the name most prominently identified with the high-tariff policy of this day. And, as the people reason, if it is the McKinley tariff or its up-to-date equivalent that is demanded, why not put Mr. McKinley himself in the White House, where as President he may supervise the job of putting the country again on a protection basis? This is the feeling that is abroad and it cannot be controlled or defeated. I have no doubt that the extent of it has been a surprise even to Mr. McKinley."

McKinley's Popularity.

McKinley's Popularity.

(Cleveland World:) The charge that the friends of McKinley are buying delegates and that his strength as the choice of the Republican party is artificial and superficial, is an insult to the Republican party. It implies that they are the dupes of the newspapers and other organs of opinion and do not know their own mind. Whereas, the truth is that so far from McKinley's prominence being a bossmade article, it is the most genuine and strenuous that has ever controlled the party, and partly because the bosses are opposed to him. The people of this country have suffered from a three years' industrial drouth. They are waiting anxiously for a rain of prosperity, and McKinley has because these circumstances that his popularity is a forced hot-house plant, and not an outgrowth of nature.

The desire of the people and of the manufacturers who are charged with preferring him is a sentimental motive. They behold in him the hope and embodiment of the protective principle, and they want him to lead the country to victory on this issue and relive it of the industrial reign of terror that has harried and menaced it for nearly three years. Mr. McKinley appeals to their imagination and their devotion, and it is the bosses that do not take into consideration the weight and gravity of this element in all political conflicts.

Mr. Chandler on Mr. Reed. (New York Mail and Express:) ator William E. Chandler of New Hampshire, who is at the Fifth Avenue Hampshire, who is at the Fitth Avenue Hotel, said this morning that he had had a surfeit of newspaper publicity during the past few days. He added that he the past few days. He added that he thought he had explained clearly and sufficiently the causes which led to what he called "the trick that had been played upon him in the New Hampshire convention, and said that, in his opinion, the wide comment which followed would result in preventing any similar "trick" being played in any other New England convention.

It was suggested to Mr. Chandler that one phrase he had used, describing Mr. Reed as a "bimetallist," had excited criticism, because the Massachusetts convention had adopted a single gold standard plank, supposed to have been written by Senator Lodge, Mr. Reed's intimate associate.

written by Senator Lodge, Mr. Reed's intimate associate.

"That is all right," said Mr. Chandler; "Mr. Reed, as I understand it, stands upon the national platform of 1892. That platform declares for bimetallism. I do not know that Mr. Reed is responsible for the action of the Massachusetts convention in declaring for gold monometallism any more than he is responsible for the action of the the New Hampshire convention, which, in accordance with the or 182. He can be taken on that place form in two ways—by the next national convention itself or by the platform to adopted by the Maine convention. Suppose the utterance of the Maine convention, whatever it may be, must be accepted as representing Mr. Reed'views on the money question, rather than what Massachusetts Republicant have said."

understood that in whatever he has said about the canvass for the Presidential nomination, he spoke upon his own individual responsibility. He did not represent Mr. Reed, who had never had previous knowledge of any of his

Workmen for McKinley.

Workmen for McKinley.

At a meeting of the Workingmen's Protective Tariff League held in Philadelphia, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, the Republican voters now engaged in the selection of delegates to the St. Louis convention have, whenever an opportunity has presented itself, almost unanimously declared for the foremost champion of that great principle for which we, as members of the Workingmen's Protective Tariff League, are organized, and

"Whereas, it is our duty as well as our right as Republicans to enter our solemn protest against any combination of political leaders using their influence for the purpose of defeating the will of the majority of the Republican voters, therefore be it

"Resolved, that we condemn the action of the Republican leaders who, with the aid of the Democratic newspapers, and selfish political bosses, seek to pull down the standard of that high type of American citizenship and the people's choice for President, Maj. William McKinley, and be it further "Resolved, that we appeal to all Republican voters to demand for ex-Gov. McKinley an open field and a fair context, believing that the great industrial masses of the Republican party will insist that he, whose advocacy of the great principle of protection has brought him so prominently before the people, be made their standard-bearer."

The following is the text of a letter from Mark Hanna, in answer to an ofter to organize McKinley clubs throughout Iowa:

"I appreciate heartily the spirit which leads you to make this offer. I would be glad to encourage you in the efforts you mentioned, did I not think they were ill-advised. Senator Allison is well entitled to the support of the Republicans of his State, and I cannot consent to be a party to any effort to wage a factious war upon him. All that Maj, McKinley's friends have ever asked, and what you, as one of his sincere friends, should insist upon, is that when the Iowa delegation shall change its vote it shall vote for Mc-Kinley."

Stand by McKinley. (Phoenix, Ariz., Republican:) The real Republicans of Arizona will not be led astray by false gods. The plea that Allison will win cannot affect the great majority of Republicans who are for McKinley.

for McKinley.

The lines are clearly defined. The Republicans, with the regular organization at their back, are standing firm for McKinley. The mugwumps and bolters are supporting Allison. Local personalities are no longer factors.

The McKinley men must stand shoulder to shoulder in the primaries, in the county and Territorial convention. Let the slogan be "McKinley, the first and only choice of Arizona."

Wholly National. E. C. Howland, Washington correspondent of the New York Mall and Express, writes as follows: "The growth of the McKinley movement is remarkable, in that it appears to be wholly natural. If Mark Hanna, McKinley's millionaire Ohio manager, were one of the old, discredited type, of rude and bullying politicians, his hand would long ago have been disclosed in some of the States which the friends of other candidates accuse him of invading. But nothing of that sort has happened. The McKinley boom swells serenely on, and not all the vexation nor all the scouting of the other honorable rivals for the St. Louis nomination has detected anything wrong with Hanna's proselyting, except its success."

(Washington Evening Star:) Representative Colson of Kentucky has returned from a trip to his State. When asked by a Star reporter as to how the Republican Presidential fight was gettin along, he said: "Next to Gov. Bradley, the men, women and children are for McKinley, and it looks like he will ley, the men, women and children are for McKinley, and it looks like he will have the solid State. Of course our del-egates will compliment Gov. Bradley and will vote for him whenever it is thought there is a chance for his nomi-nation, but whenever they do not cast Bradley votes McKinley will get them."

Protection Will Rule. (American Economist.) There has not been a moment of time since the election of Mr. Cleveland, in the fall of 1892, that the farmers of this country could find any consolation in the situation. The boasted "wider foreign markets" which were to be given the producers of this country in exchange for opening up our own markets to foreign competition, have failed to appear. The American far mer who thought he was not having a fair chance under the protective tariff of 1892 knows better now. The protection sentiment is quite as strong in the rural districts today as it is in the biggest manufacturing dis-trict in the land.

(Cleveland World:) If ever poetic just ice was done a man, Senator Chandler may be said to be a most conspicuous and thorough victim of it. The Irishman who sawed off the limb of a tree on which he was sitting could not have done it more neatly or effectively than Senator Chandler. The villain in the melodrama who is baffied by his own devices and hoisted by his own petard does not act his part more faithfully than Senator Chandler when he attempted to stay the onrush of the McKinley boom by accusations against McKinley boom by accusations against McKinley that were base, dastardly, untrue, victous and malicious.

Elected president of the New Hampshire Republican Convention, with his mouth yet moist with the spittle he cast on McKinley's name and fame, he saw that convention rise up and honor the man he had aspersed, and declare that the Republicans of New Hampshire hold the Ohio candidate in equal honor with the New England candidate. A rebuke so humiliating has seldom been administered in public life in the United States. It is unique, effectual, unanswerable. "Our Senator is a slanderer of a worthy Republican. By as much as he has endeavored to dishonor and asperse him we exait and praise him," shouted the Hew Hampshire Republicans in Senator Chandler's face.

(New York Mail and Express:) Mr. Platt, on the eve of his departure for a visit to Florida, leaves this prophecy behind: "Notwithstanding anything that may be said, Gov. Morton will be nominated at St. Louis." It may be well to cut this out and post it in same conspicuous place. In the light of subsequent events it will make interesting reading on the adjournment of the convention, and furnish an accurate estimate of the Easy Boss as a Presidential prophet. It will figure among those things that might better have been left unsaid.

The Hight Principle.

Commenting on Senator Quay's admission that McKinley would have from 375 to 400 votes on the first ballot, the Syracuse Herald remarks: "McKinley represents the principles of protection, for which the people have declared, as no other man now before the country represents it, and there are indications in the political heavens that a veritable cyclone of enthusiasm for the Ohio man is brewing."

(Troy Press:) Mr. Platt does not know how general and, in a fair sense, how determined is the hatred everywhere to his arrogant rule of the last few months. It may mean nothing, but it has an ominous sound. The shadows of a man's fall are often seen before

In the San Pedro correspondence, appearing in another column, reference is made to the rough experiences of the crew of the bark Fernbank. Going by sailboat from that port, the buffeting of the craft off Santa Monica, and the failure of the skipper to land the crew on shipboard testify plainly regarding the exposed situation of Mr. Huntington's "harbor site." Unable to land, they put back to San Pedro, the free they put back to San Pedro, the free harbor site, and there experienced no difficulty. Incidents like this tell the

The Fate of H. H. Worrell Still in

The Fate of H. H. Worrell Still in Suspense.

H. H. Worrell was examined before Justice Owens yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. Worrell was accused of pawning property which he had been commissioned by Mr. Turner to sell, as a peddling agent. The courtroom was gorgeous with imitation marble clocks, bright rugs, etc., the property which had caused all the trouble. The amount of merchandise involved was of such comparatively small amount, that it was doubtful it it would be proper to make Worrell's offense a felony embezzlement. Finally Justice Owens took the matter under consideration until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The fresh police work was very light. There were but three new cases. James McDermott, a very hard clitzen, was sentenced to serve 160 days in the chain-gang as a punishment for living the life of a vagrant.

George Wangh's trial for vagrancy was set for this morning at 10 o'clock. John Genzelis is an Italian candypeddler of tender years. He is only about knee-high to a grasshopper. The child was arrested Thursday evening for calling Officer Walker foul names in the presence of women and children. Yesterday Johnnie told Justice Owens he had done what he was charged with doing. "just for a joke." So His Honor found him guilty. Sentence will be pronounced at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The case against Ah Jim of selling optum without a license was dismissed.

Justice Morrison will try G. Aladino on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday on March 16.

Ah Lucy is an old Chinese tea-peddler. He was arrested April 1 on a charge of disturbing the peace. The only thing the simple old Chinaman did was to walk into a kitchen without first knocking. Justice Morrison yesterday dismissed the case, believing the morning before Justice Owens.

Santa Monica yesterday offered a favorable opportunity for viewing Mr. Huntington's harbor site. The angry sea in that open roadstead was lashed into foam and the breakers burst on the unprotected shore in protest against the senseless proposition of attempting to fence it off. From the bluffs it was plain to see that the elements had no regard for the selection made by the Southern Pacific for its exclusive harbor site.

It is particularly desirable that the Spanish in name—should be made as prominent as possible. California abounds in reminders of the Spanish occupation, the nomenclature of the stowns and all the points of consequence in the country being of Spanish origin.

You take a big risk in buying a hat any where and at haphazard. Many persons can't distinguish a good hat from a poor one; a cheap imitation looks the same as a genuine article. It's only after a few days' wear that the difference is discovered, Poor hats would be dear at a quarter the price of good ones, but they cost much more than that. Compared with them, Desmond's magnificent derbies and fedoras would be cheaper at double their price. When in need of anything in the line of shirts, hosiery, collars, cuffs, neck wear, etc., etc., also make a bee line for Desmond's No. 141 South Spring street, and be pleased, happy and satisfied.

It's very easy to add '25 per cent to your income simply by the exercise of a little head work in buying. Desmond's stock of hats and men's furnishings is full of points for moneysavers and of dollar-fattening bargains. It's a large dollar that's worth $1.25, but your dollars are worth that at Desmond's store, in the Bryson Block. AN ADVANCE IN FREIGHT.

The Transcontinental Railroad-Association to Be Revived.

The transcontinental railroads getting ready for an advance in the freight rates. The Transcontinental Association will be revived, and the cutting of rates as a matter of competition will be a thing of the past. Both the Southern Pacific and Santa Fé lines will join the association which will also include the northern roads, which hitherto have had an association of their own. The Northern Pacific, the Cauadian Pacific and the Great Northern will all join the new association. This will mean a general advance in freight rates to the Missouri River. While there are many articles that the new association will not touch, there are also many the rates on which will be raised. Freight that at present is sent to the Missouri River at 50 cents per hundred pounds will probably be raised to 75 cents. The material that is ranked at a dollar will probably suffer no will join the association which will also at a dollar will probably suffer no change, but lower priced freight may all be looked to.

The railroad people say that there is no money in the lesser charge, and by associating intend to obviate the cutting of rates, and then raise the price. Exactly what articles will suffer most has not yet been determined.

ELECTRIC CARS ON FIFTH STREET Electric cars will soon be running on Fifth, Olive and Sixth streets, work-men now being busy making the neces-sary connections and crossings. The street railway company will need all its available lines to the location of the tribunes where the principal scenes of the fiesta will be enacted, in the square formed by Sixth, Hope and Sev-enth streets and Grand avenue.

Yesterday Justice Morrison pronounced sentence. The Basque attorney was ordered to pay a fine of $100 or serve 100 days in the City Jail. The defendant's lawyer, Mr. Hyatt, has taken an appeal to the Superior Court from Justice Morrison's decision, and is fighting the matter tooth and nail. Biscalluz made a strenuous effort to find someone to help him out of his difficulties, but he was unsuccessful. So late yesterday afternoon the embezzler was locked up to serve out his sentence.

The discussion between the city and county educational people over the dis-position to be made of the schools in the annexed districts, which, as noted the amexed districts, which, as noted in The Times of yesterday, began Thursday, was continued yesterday and after some rather stormy scenes was brought to a satisfactory termination—satisfactory, at least, to Super-Intendent Foshay and the Board of Education.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Work Will Be Denied.

The various petitions to the Council asking that East First and East Fifth asking that East First and East Fifth street be swept every night, and the recommendation of the Street Sweeping Superintendent that these petitions be granted, were considered by the Board of Public Works yesterday. The Councilmen were unanimously of the opinion that the present condition of the municipal treasury is such as not to warrant the improvement asked for. The petitions will therefore be filed.

The petition of the Merchants' Association for relief from the indiscriminate hitching of horses on the business streets of the city, was discussed, by the board, but no action upon the petition was taken. The ordinance now in force upon this subject, which was printed several weeks ago in The Times, will probably be made the basis of a recommendation in the matter to the Council. This ordinance forbids the standing or hitching of horses between the hours of 7 a.m., and 6 p.m. for longer than one hour, on the main streets of the city.

The board recommended to the Council.

cll that the petition from I. B. Bolton asking that the cow ordinance be amended, be referred to the City Attor asking that the cow ordinance be amended, be referred to the City Attorney to present an ordinance in accordance with the petition, which asks that the limits be extended to take in the following territory: Commencing at the intersection of Bellevue avenue and Alvarado street, thence west on Bellevue avenue to Hubbard street, thence north on Hubbard street and west line of Washington Heights to Reservoir street to Alvarado street, thence south on Alvarado street to place of beginning. Other matters referred to the board were acted upon as follows:

"Recommend that petition from W. A. Horn et al., asking to have the sidewalks repaired in front of Nos 500 and 502 Downey avenue, be referred to the Street Superintendent with instructions to attend to the matter.

"Recommend that petition from Cordelia Mallard et al., asking that the grade of Ninth street from Pearl street to Alvarado street be changed and established so as to conform to the present improvements upon the street, be referred to the City Engineer to report if a majority of the frontage affected is appresented theron, and if so to present the necessary ordinance of intention."

THE PUBLIC SERVICE and graded and graveled be granted and the City Engineer instructed to present the necessary ordinance of in-tablishing the width of sidewalk on a portion of Tenth street be placed upon its passage.

"Recommend that petition from R. W. Kelley et al., asking that an alley twelve feet wide be opened through block A, of the Cummin's subdivision of block 60, Hancock's survey, connecting State and Balley street, be granted, and the City Attorney be instructed to prepare and present the necessary ordinace of intention, and that the City Engineer be instructed to furnish the City Attorney with the necessary data; the district of assessment to include all lots and lands fronting upon said proposed alley between Balley and State streets.

"In the matter of proposals to improve Thompson street from Adams to Twenty-third streets, we recommend that the bid of M. S. Cummings at 87 cents per lineal foot for grading and graveling complete; 29 cents per lineal foot for curb and 31.45 per lineal foot for curb and 31.45 per lineal foot for crosswalks, be accepted and the accompanying resolution of award adopted.

conform to a change of grade made on the street.

This appeal for damages was made in December, 1895, and was referred by the City Council to the commission, composed of the Mayor, Street Superintendent and City Engineer, which under the law is required to decide questions of this sort.

Mr. Nollac claimed that his property had been damaged and would be still further damaged by a change of grade on the street (Fourth street,) where he resided. The commission decided that the benefits his property would receive by the change of grade equalled the damages pointed out, and will report accordingly.

The entire proceedings to change the grade of streets in the big Figueroastreet improvement district have been delayed, pending a decision from the commission on Mr. Nolloc's claim for damages. The effect of the decision, which will be formulated in a report to the Council today, will be to allow the proceedings for the improvement of the district to be at once commenced.

The City Council is contemplating making an effort to reduce the running expenses of the city government, and the initial step in the movement will be made at the meeting of the Finance Committee this morning. City Clerk Luckenbach will submit to the committee a detailed statement of the city's finances, showing to what extent the cash fund is overdrawn, and by this statement the committee will be guided in making its recommendations to the Council.

Assistant Chief Smith of the fire department reports that during the month of March thirteen fire alarms were turned in and responded to by the department. Of these thirteen alarms, one was a false call. Of the twelve fires, five were caused by the improper handling of gasoline stoves; two by coal-oil stoves, one by a lamp explosion, two by defective heaters, one by the careless use of matches and one by a defective chimuey flue.

on trial yesterday for the second time in Judge McKinley's court. The case was tried about a year ago, and the jury disagreed. Mr. Fay put the lot in question into the hands of Mr. I indley for sale. Mr. Lindley found a purchaser in the person of J. E. Carr, who is alleged to have entered into an agree.

chaser in the person of J. E. Carr, who is alleged to have entered into an agreement in April, 1894, by which $36,000 was to be paid to Mr. Fay as the purchase price of the land, and Mr. Lindley was to receive a reasonable commission from the first payments made.

Mr. Carr paid $500 to clinch the bargain, which Mr. Lindley asserts that he was willing and anxious to carry out, but Mr. Fay declined to accept the money or make the conveyance as agreed. Therefore, Mr. Lindley found himself out in the cold as regarded the commission, for which he is now suing.

Mr. Fay denies the whole transaction and asserts that Mr. Carr was an interested party, and that an understanding existed between him and Mr. Lindley that the commission on the sale was to be divided. The trial may occupy several days.

had alienated his affections from her, and broken up their home, even going so far as to persuade the young man into taking a trip to Boston to get away from his lawfully wedded wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovet now answer that their daughter-in-law is entirely mistaken in her premises; that the young man, far from being over-persuaded to leave his wife, could not be induced to live with her, and had himself urged the trip to Boston as a means of getting away from her, even going so far as to threaten to become a brake-beam the trip to Boston as a means of getting away from her, even going so far as to threaten to become a brake-beam tourist, or join a circus, if no other means of escape were held forth.

Mrs. Lovett, the elder, goes on to state that her son is a wild and reckless youth, who narried a woman in Chicago at 18, and soon after procured a divorce, only to take another plunge into the sea of matrimonial troubles at 20, and to be again divorced. When he was 22, he tried it a third time, this venture being Mrs. Bella, who, her mother-in-law alleges, is several years older than her husband, and had a keen eye to the main chance when she married him. The elder Mrs. Lovett also hints at certain indiscretions on the part of her daughter-in-law, and does not seem to fear the recovery of any damages from either herself on her husband.

Paul Wenzel, a Dutchman who once orked for Mrs. Workman, allowed hi worked for Mrs. Workman, allowed his temper to carry him to such lengths that the District Attorney yesterday issued a complaint against him for ma-licious mischief. It seems that Mrs. Workman owed Wenzel $60, for which workman wear to the work work with the affairs of the estate were wound up and the property sold, Wenzel was told to present his claim, but neglected to do so. Afterward, he commenced to annoy Mrs. Workman with demands for the money, which she could not satisfy, having turned in every dollar. Wenzel then became abusive and menacing, and finally went to Mrs. Workman's house, where he pounded and kicked on the door, uttering the most violent and insulting language, and at last tore down the sign belonging to Mrs. Ganahl, Mrs. Workman's daughter, who is a dressmaker, and destroyed it, scattering the pieces over the stairs. Unfortunately for Wenzel, this little display of temper was such as to bring he had a judgment against her. When isplay of temper was such as to bring im within the pale of the law.

After Judge Brunson's death, Mrs. Brunson exchanged the piano as an quivalent to $300 on the price of a new equivalent to $300 on the price of a new piano, which she bought of A. B. Judkins. Mr. Judkins, in turn, sold the old piano to Mrs. Nettle Ball for $165—$25 down, and the rest in monthly payments of $10, with accrued interest. Nearly a year has elapsed, and all the payments have been made but three, and now Mrs. Ball has suddenly discovered that the piano is not a Steinway, or thinks she has, and wants her money back. Judge Young will decide the case next Tuesday.

SPOILED THE BRICKS.

Suit Over an Alleged Defective Oilburning Plant.

Judge Van Dyke was yesterday hear the firm of Stevens & Armstrong, to re cover $1325 in payment for an oil-burn-ing plant erected in the brick-yard of the Monarch Brick Company. The brick company claims that the machinbrick company claims that the machinery was not properly constructed, and that the builders did not keep the agreement they made to teach the employes of the brick-yard how to use the engine. In attempting to learn how to use the plant, three kilns of brick were ruined, and the Monarch Brick Company brings a cross-complaint demanding $5000 damages for the loss of the bricks on account of the failure of Stevens & Armstrong to perform their part of the alleged agreement.

RAGS, SACKS AND BOTTLES.

An Old Bone-gatherer Who Dis

Justice Young yesterday read a fatherly lecture to Frank Kramer, an ancient vendor of rags, sacks and bottles, and fined him $50 or twenty-five days in jail for disturbing the peace of his former wife. Kramer's matrimonial experiences have been of a harrowing kind. A few years ago he was divorced from his wife, after much domestic infelicity which found expression-say means of fists and broomsticks. Mrs. Kramer was given the house they lived in and the custody of the children and Kramer set up an independent establishment where he collected his bones and bottles undisturbed.

In a few months Mrs. Kramer found that the bread-aid-butter supply was falling and that a husband was a necessary evil when it came to the support of a thriving young family. She accordingly hustled around after her recalcitrant bone-gatherer and requested him to come home and all would be forgiven. Kramer returned to the bosom of his family, though omitting the slight formality of a remarriage, and the twain lived together for some three years longer. Dissensions arose from time to time and occasionally became so serious that Mrs. sons arose from time to time and oc-casionally became so serious that Mrs. Kramer had recourse to the law for-protection. Kramer once spent six months in jail for threatened offense and was brought into Justice Young's court not long ago on the charge of battory.

court not long ago on the charge of battery.

When this last complaint for disturbance of Mrs. Kramer's peace came up for hearing, Justice Young thought it time to teach the people a lesson, so he read Mrs. Kramer a severe lecture and fined her warlike old husband, holding the fine in suspension on condition that he immediately left the house and the former partner of his joys and sorrows in peace and promised future good behavior.

They killed the herders, five in number, and wounded Tedford severely. Night came on and he drew himself painfully to the place where he could lie in concealment from the redskins, and was rescued after their departure. The horses were driven away to Mexico, where the Indians in their mountain fastnesses so long bade defiance to the military forces of the sister republics.

EXCITING HALF-HOUR.

Prisoner Attempts Escape.

Stella Martin, a baby girl one and one-half years old, was run over by a one-half years old, was run over by a dirt-wagon yesterday morning.

The chain-gang is at work on the North Hill-street cut. The prisoners are down in a deep excavation, where all day long they toil with pick and shovel, filling wagons with earth. This earth the wagons carry a distance of several blocks in order to make a fill. The Pasadena and Pacific Company is taking much of the excavated earth, which is good gravel, to put on its track on Bellevue avenue.

Yesterday morning Stella Martin, the little daughter of C. T. Martin of No. 620 Stevens place, along which the wagons travel back and forth, toddled down in the road to pick up a bowlful of dust. Mrs. Martin saw her there and sent an older child to bring her back. But before the child could reach her baby sister, an empty wagon came up the road, going toward the cut.

WAS A TALL SOLDIER

He Was Looked Up to by President Lincoln. To a member of The Times staff was recently related by an eye-witness one of the incidents of President Lincoln's neetings with his soldiers. The story s believed to be hitherto unpublished. unteer Infantry, of which a son of Secretary of State Seward was lluntenant-colonel, was in 1863 quartered at Camp Mansfield in the defences of Washing-ton near Tenleytown. President Lin-coln and Secretary Seward occasionally ton near Tenleytown. President Lincoln and Secretary Seward occasionally drove to the place to see the secretary's son. On one of these occasions dressparade was in progress. When the men marched up to salute the colonel, the President and Secretary, standing near their carriage, and the colonel told the officers to remain and be introduced. The tallest man in the regiment was Lieut. S. G. Woodard of Co. B. His size was the subject of much banter, and the boys had nicknamed him "Baby." When the President was introduced to the tall officer, a look of kindly amusement overspread his features, as he remarked: "Lieutenant, it is not often that I have to look up to a man as I do to you," Many times afterward when his size was the subject of railery, Woodard would reply: "Well, the President had to look up to me, anyway."

The chief supply is in the East on the spot, and if reports are true, the demand is good at 2½ for 2-crown, and 3½ c for 3-crown loose. Last week Wednesday and Thursday all the large packers from the San Joaquin Valley, with the exception of two, met in this city and formulated a plan which, if carried out, will result in the organization of a central company or rhich, if carried out, will result in the rganization of a central company or issociation through which all the pack-ag business will be transacted. It will be known as the Raisin-Packers' Asso-mation, and the capital will be $1,000,000. The detail have not been arranged, but enough progress has been made to assure the growers that if 75 per cent. of the crop will cooperate with this packers' association, the organization will be perfected and better prices prevail for both sweat-box and packed goods." eatures of the market for the growers

"The olive has been a household word from a remote period serving mankind as shelter, light, fuel, food and medicine from time immemorial The Bible informs us that the olive was The Bible informs us that the clive was chosen to reign over all the other trees and that a portion of the fruit was to be left for the stranger, the fatherless and the widow. The tree was the subject of pagan legend, and the oil has ever had an important place in the religious ceremonies and sacred functions of Jews, and of Christians. A long line of renowned prophets, philosophers, poets, artists, heroes, athletes and beauties were born and reared where the olive tree flourishes, and were nourished by its fruit; though an emblem ished by its fruit; though an emblem of peace the ancients crowned their victorious warriors with its leaves. In modern times it is the chief food of millions, but among us its use is saily neglected. We need not marvel at this when we consider that the output of our own olive belt is so limited and of such recent date that only a small portion of the people of this country even know that olives are produced within our that olives are produced within our borders, and that the great mass of our small coal fires in baskets, inducing of the people of this country even allow that olives are produced within our borders, and that the great mass of our countrymen know the olive only as it comes to us from abroad pickled in a green state or the imitation article in the shape of unripe plums largely put up in the Eastern States and foisted upon the market as pickled olives, the one being about as worthless for food as the other, while the imported oil is $20 adly adulterated that it has failed to win public favor. Still the annual importation of alleged olived and green pickled olives amounts to upward of a million and a half of dollars. But a new era for the olive in this country is upon us; on the western border of our continent it is found that we have a section eminently adapted to olive culture, and our people are beginning to appreciate the food value of our ripe pickled olives ple are beginning to appreciate the food value of our ripe pickled olives and our pure filte oil, and its superiority over the imported, and the use is gradually extending throughout our country, promising to become as general as it is abroad.

"Olive trees are not commonly found

"Olive trees are not commonly found around California homes, owing to the newness of the industry and to the erroneous opinion which prevails that it is very difficult to put up the product for use, while it really does not require as much skill as it does to make butter and cheese, wherein chemical changes are involved, it being expedient for a man of ordinary ability to convert a moderate citive crop into oil and pickles with no great expense for apparatus, thus supplying his household with a valuable and wholesome food, the surplus being as salable in the pearatus, thus supplying his household with a valuable and wholesome food, the surplus being as salable in the market as any other farm product. Fou may sometimes hear persons complain that their olive, trees do not bear esgularly, but they do not tell the whole story, as it would convict them if neglect to give their trees even the fittle care required. This trait of shifting responsibility was fully developed a Adam, and centuries of culture have sot eliminated it from the average man. "The uses of the olive in the home re too numerous and varied to be discussed in a brief paper. In the oliverowers' handbook which I published his year the subject is treated at some angth, also the propagation of olive sees, age for transplanting, time to cansplant, transplanting from the uttery to the orchard, pruning olive trees time of transplanting from the nursey into the orchard, pruning olive trees the orchard, pruning olive trees the orchard, pruning olive trees the orchard, by the consequence of olive flowers to increase utitulness, the bearing habit of olive and dred olives, pickling olives, exacting olives and the future of the life in California. But may say that those who have used in the pickled olives know how decided they are and how fully they upt the place of animal food without pessibility of imparting triching or recursing to those who use them.

the cheapest and most wholesome food that can be given to them. Wherever lard is used clive oil may be advantageously substituted in point of health and in other respects; to those specially whose digestion is impaired and who need food that may be easily assimilated, clive oil is invaluable; it may be used instead of butter or taken with a small proportion of wine, lemon or orange julee, which cleanses the palate, leaving no taste of the oil. It is gradually taking the place of cod liver oil, and eminent physicians recommend its use as an unequaled nutriment and as a family remedy for many of the ills which flesh is heir to. Many have found how potent the application of olive oil is to smooth unwelcome wrinkles and to nourish the shrunken tissue beneath them, and how superior it is to everything else as a nutriment and dressing for the hair, and how excellent its use is with salads for clearing and improving the complexion. May I add that a kind Providence has linked the oilve with humanity in a most impressive manner and has bestowed uson the tree an almost human gift of adapting itself to its environment and has extended its period of useful existence beyond the duration of many generations of man, and he that ornaments the grounds about his home with these favored and useful trees may reap substantial benefits from them and leave an enduring monument to his memory."

One of the interesting papers read before the recent Farmers' Institute at Colton was by Mr. Chamblin of Riverside on fruit-growers' exchanges.

Mr. Chamblin, who was one of the organizers of the Southern California fruit exchanges, takes a very encouraging view of the possibilities in stor for the fruit-grower of Southern California as soon as the various branches of horticulture shall have been thoroughly organized. He showed that the exchanges have already wrought a revolution in the fruit-growing business in this section. Instead of being shipped out haphazard the fruit now goes out of California to be sold. He quoted the opinion of a banker who said that if the exchanges should cease to exist the value of fruit land in Southern California would be decreased by half.

Arizona Agriculture.

The Times has arranged to receive regularly the bulletins of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Arizona at Tucson and will from time to time publish such portions of these bulletins as may be of service to our readers.

The experiment station is in charge of W. L. Devol, a gentleman who is known to many of our readers, having acted for several years as correspond ent of The Times at Riverside, San Bernardino and Redlands.

Protection From Frost. At the recent meeting of the Farmers' Institute at Colton, reports of which have been published in The Times, an interesting paper was that read by F. C. Finkle on the "Mitigation of Damage by Frost." Mr. Finkle is the originator of the theory of combating frost by raising the temperature, to which reference has already been made in these columns.

Mr. Finkle summarized the laws governing the distribution of frost as fol-erning the distribution of frost as for-lows:

"(1) An absolute sea level elevation of any height can not insure safety-from frosts.

"(2) In any locality the relatively low places receive the most frequent and severe frosts.

"(3) The relatively high places are the safer, but are not wholly exempt from damage."

He then referred to various means small coal fires in baskets, inducing wind currents, spraying with water and lastly protection by evaporation. The last is the method that is specially recommended by Mr. Finkle. His concluding remarks on the subject are ineresting and we repeat them here:

"From the previous discussions here-in it is apparent that in order to pro-tect against frost it is necessary to in-

"From the previous discussions herein it is apparent that in order to protect against frost it is necessary to increase the amount of moisture in the atmosphere. The reasons why a large amount of moisture in the atmosphere will prevent frost are as follows: A damp atmosphere is a sluggish conductor of heat, and will therefore retain the heat given to it, instead of rapidly radiating it away into space. A large amount of moisture in the atmosphere causes condensation to begin at a correspondingly high temperature and the heat given off by condensation maintains the temperature at a point equally high or higher. These principles are beyond question fundamentally correct, and it was upon these that the writer based his discovery for the prevention of frosts.

"In order to accomplish these objects, and to avoid any other undesirable results, the vapor communicated to the atrahould be as pure as possible. No advantage is to be gained by the use of vagory smoke, while in many instances, as before pointed out, the harm resulting to fruit may be great. These considerations, as well as economy in the operation of a system of frost protection, led the writer to suggest the use of vats or pans filled with water to which the heat can be applied from below.

What is necessary is to have a small fire, such as an old jet, under the vat, so that all the heat from fells in the water and not in rarefying the surrounding air.

"Oil is undoubtedly the cheapest fuel at present obtainable in Southern California, as well as the most easily handled, and for these reasons has been considered the most available. It can be applied by means of a burner under the water vat in a jet of such volume as may be required, and may be allowed to burn slowly all night without further attention. In any system of frost protection the cost of attendance is a very important item, and anything which requires a large number of all-night attendance will surely become burdensome and costly.

"In conclusion the writer destres to call attention to the result

50 cents per acre. The experiments upon which these deductions are based have been, made both with an artificial evaporator and by observing the phenomena of natural warm springs. From them the writer has estimated the number of vats required for a given area and their cost, which, with the very best of apparatus, self-operating after being started in the evening, will not cost to exceed $15 per acre. The force for operating such a system could be managed the same as the fire department of a city, and called out by means of an agreed signal, each man having a certain part to perform. The location of the evaporators should be near irrigating ditches or flumes, so they may be easily filled; they should be of such capacity as to contain an all-night supply; the oil jets should be such as to burn for any desired length of time after they are lighted, etc. With these suggestions the present paper will close by saying that it is no longer a theory but a fact that frosts can be averted by the method of vaporizing the atmosphere."

Good feeding is necessary. Large, plump and desirable fowls cannot be developed from underfed chickens. They must be fed well from the start and pushed as much as possible, and marketed before they get too old to be tender and julcy. There is plenty of room for improvement in this respect.

Thoroughbreds vs. Scrubs.

Thoroughbreds vs. Scrubs.

(Southern Cultivator:) Those who have been keeping a lot of unprofitable scrub fowls would do well to read and profit by the advice given in the following article, which is taken from the catalogue of the Reliable Incubator Company:

We appeal to you on behalf of thoroughbred poultry. We are satisfied you would want no other kind if you understood their real value. The day has gone by when it is necessary to argue to intelligent persons on behalf of thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep and hogs. Neither, then, should you overlook the importance of vigorous, largesized, productive and uniformly beautiful pure-bred fowls. Scrub chickens are not and cannot be as profitable for reasons that we will briefly set forth. A thing of beauty is a joy forever. A flock of pure-bred poultry, uniform in color and markings, proud, vigorous, thrifty—these are an ornament to any lawn or farm yard. Much genuine pleasure can be derived from these beautiful domestic pets. Pure-bred poultry will produce more eggs than can be obtained from badly inbred, or the common barn-yard stock, and eggs from such stock will be more valuable to you, for the reason that your neighbors will see and admire your hand-some flock, and pay you three times the market price of eggs for sittings, in order that they, too, may have such large, fine looking and vigorous fowls.

We lay particular stress on this reason: It costs as much in buildings, food, time and labor to hatch out and raise to maturity scrub chickens, that, when grown, will weigh three and one-half pounds (hens) and five pounds (cocks), as it does to hatch and raise to maturity pure-bred poultry that, when grown will weigh seven pounds (hens) and ten pounds (cocks.) The same houses that you have built for the scrub chickens that you now have will do as well for the pounds (hens) and five pounds (hens) and ten pounds (hens) in the fire chickens will rechickens that you now have will do as well for the pure-bred birds as for the scrubs. The fine chickens will reas well for the pure the arms as the scrubs. The fine chickens will require no more food than those you are now feeding. They will require no more time and no more labor. But the result will be vastly different. All stock that is not "kept up" runs down. Your "common chickens" should weigh twice what they do weigh. If fed the same quantity of food, pure-blooded chickens would weigh, at maturity, seven to twelve pounds each. We therefore ask, why waste your buildings, your time, your labor and your money on the "run down" stock, when both pleasure and profit lie in the pure-bred flock?

Do not reply that the "first expense is too great." We beg to differ with you on that score. From $2 to $6 will buy you enough good eggs to make a start with, and in one short year you will be out of the woods. Suppose that you buy two sittings (26) of reliable, pure-blood eggs. From these you should hatch, say eighteen chicks. With good care and good luck you should raise fifteen out of the eighteen to maturity. You will take good care of these chicks for the simple reason that they are valuable. If you had the wisdom to buy none but high-grade eggs, you will now have a flock of your for the simple reason that they are variable. If you had the wisdom to buy none but high-grade eggs, you will now have a flock of pure-blood fowls, uni-form in color, beautiful in plumage, proud, active and vigorous, that are worth from $20 to $50. Were you to go worth from $20 to $50. Were you to go to a reliable poultry breeder and try to buy duplicates of your birds he would ask you a price that would send you home rejoicing—rejoicing that you own such a really valuable flock of fowls. We have tried it and know whereof we speak.

The Oleomargarine Law.

It may be of interest to the dairymen of this section to know that a test case involving the oleomargarine laws of this State is now pending in the Police Court of this city. In nearly all of the States of the Union there are acts regulating and governing the manufacture and sale of the imitation butter, and but few of them are exactly similar in wording or construction. At the last-session of the Legislature of California an act was passed prohibiting the sale of any substance colored in imitation of butter, as well as providing that due notice should be given The Oleomargarine Law.

each purchaser of such substance as did not come within the prohibiting color line. John Morarity, a grocer of this city, sold oleomargarine to his customers, and the secretary of the State Dairymen? Association, who chanced to be in the city, noted that the oleomargarine sold was of the color of ordinary butter. He accordingly selected a sale of that grocer's to make a test case upon, and an arrest followed. At the trial of the case, which was conducted upon behalf of the people by Deputy Dist. Atty. W. P. James, Gen. A. B. Campbell appearing for the defendant, it was shown that the oleomargarine was of identically the same color as that of a roll of pure butter, and after proving this fact, and the sale of the oleomargarine, the prosecution rested.

The defense was that no artificial coloring matter was used in the oleomargarine to heighten the color of the natural ingredients, and that therefor the law had not been violated. The case, being of considerable importance, was ordered submitted on briefs, the opening one of which as been filed. In this brief Deputy District Attorney James takes the ground that under our law it makes no difference whether the oleomargarine contains what is commonly known as artificial coloring matter or not. He argues that in some States the law contains the words "artificial coloring matter," and that in such States only it is necessary to prove that some coloring matter has been used; further, that the California act forbids the sale of cleomargarine contains what is many the substance should be placed without the pale of that the sale of which is prohibited. The case furnishes some nice points for legal determination, and the 'Dairymen's "Association are awaiting the outcome of it with interest.

Comparatively little eleomargarine is sold in this State now, the amount numbering not more than two carloads for the past year, as against many times that amount sold before the passage of the act of the Legislature referred to during a like period of time.

The quality of farm help is more nearly tested by its ability to manage a team without abusing it than by any other one thing The horse is a sen tive, nervous animal, and if abused, as it often is, it soon becomes restless, and finally obstinate and victous. A great many horses are ruined by the poor quality of farm help, which is now so common. If better help cannot be procured it may be necessary to do as is done by Southern farmers, breed mules, which will resent ill-treatment so promptly that they will be less likely to be abused than is the horse.

so promptly that they will be less likely to be abused than is the horse.

(American Cultivator:) It is only the best farm stock which pays any profit in these days of close competition. When the best has once been secured, it not only pays better for the care given it, but its progeny is also worth much more than that from scrub stock and costing very nearly as much to keep. It is not true, however, that the improved stock can be kept just as cheaply as that which is inferior. If any one attempts it, he will find his pedigreed animals retrograding into scrubs, and such a scrub, the degeneracy of what had once been improved, is harder to make anything out of than is the ordinary farm stock which has never had any pedigree blood in it. Every step in improvement pledges the man who makes it to continue in the same lines, lest he lose what gain he has made. Another point in breeding is not to try crossing with two breeds of various habits. If you are grading up Jerseys continue with that breed, instead of taking a side cross into Holstein, Guernsey or Shorthorn. This criss-crossing is sure to result in a mongrei that cannot be bred to, even with a pure bred of any breed, with any certainly of what its product will be.

A RESUME.

PASADENA, April 16.—(To the Editor of The Times:) In your Pasadena column, under the head of "The Political Situation," I find this statement: "It is considered a unique situation, that which now prevails in local politics. Those who have scores to pay off against the party are making the most strenuous efforts to defeat it, claiming all the time to be good Republicans, and yet asserting that the Republicans of Pasadena as a party are corrupt, unworthy of confidence, and generally disreputable." I do not know who are referred to as having scores to pay off against the party. It may be possible that some one has made the broad statement contained in the above paragraph. But one thing I do know, and that is it does not represent the views of the great majority of Republicans enlisted in the Citizens' movement. We are not making war on men, those with whom we expect to stand in our approaching national contest with McKinley as our leader. No one would dare say that the Republicans of Pasadena are generally disreputable. We who are in the Citizens' movement claim to be as truly a portion of the party as those who support the ticket nominated by the Republican managers. The question which divides us is one of principle, not of men. They say they think it best to run our municipal affairs on political lines. We think it best to run them on a broader gauge; that is, to eliminate politics, choosing the best men, regardless of their political affairs on political lines. Of their political affairs on political lines, we be norught forward. Both sides entonests. But the saloon question has been brought forward. Both sides the only, question involved in the pres-ent contest. But the saloon question has been brought forward. Both sides claim to be anti-saloon; and yet our Re-publican brethren tell us our ticket is Prohibition, and nothing else, because a majority of the Prohibitionists, if not all, favor that ticket. But Prohibition-ists give as their reason for voting the a majority of the Prohibitionists, if not all, favor that ticket. But Prohibitionists, if not all, favor that ticket. But Prohibitionists give as their reason for voting the Citizens' ticket that all high-license men are going to vote the straight Republicant icket. Now,' I do not say that the Republicans, if elected, would issue saloon licenses, but I do say I feel a little safer as an anti-saloon man, in voting the Citizens' ticket. My Republican friends admit that ordinance No. 220 has not been enforced as it should have been; at least, some of them do. If the ordinance is to stand—and we do not wish it changed—we want a Board of Trustees, a Marshal and police force that will see to its enforcement, and we believe the Citizens' ticket is composed of such men, and we propose to employ all fair and honorable means to secure their election. I repeat, we have no sympathy with mud-slingers on either side—I speak as a Republican; those who are opposed to us have a right to their opinion; we claim the same right. The question is local and when decided we will close up our ranks for the national struggle which is just before us. We have not left the party. We are not mugwumps. We have not gone back on a man representing a principle of the party. We repeat, this is a local question, and entirely outside of political lines.

ment in regard to just how far Mr. Salcido, the Mexican who was convicted on Thursday of stealing wood from the Hugus ranch, will be expected to per-form his portion of what was "nominated in the bond," if the Salcido side of the story is a true one. Mr. Salcido went to a certain well-known citizen and bus-iness man of Pasadena Thursday, and asked him to appear as a witness for him in the Recorder's court on that day to certify to his character for hon-city. As he was accused of stellar alm in the Recorder's court on that day to certify to his character for honesty, as he was accused of stealing wood. The gentleman told Mr. Salcido that he could not conscientiously do so; although it was true that he had bought wood from Salcido for several years, he knew nothing of the man's honesty, and therefore could not testify. In the course of the conversation Salcido related that Benjamin Hahn, his attorney, had assured him that he would not charge him a cent for his defense, if he would promise to work among the Mexicans for the Citizens' ticket, and that promise was accordingly given. Salcido is the man upon whose bond W. S. Lacey, the candidate for City Marshal on the Citizens' ticket, appears, and Dye Patterson accompanied him to the Recorder's office to sign the bond. Salcido was found guilty and will be sentenced on next Wednesday, and now it is being asked whether Salcido will be obliged to yield up the "pound of flesh," in the shape of Mexican voters, as well as serve his term in jail. Just how far the moral support of Señor Salcido will affect the campaign has not yet been calculated.

ing statement signed by the chairman of the Republican City Executive Committee:

"During the past two years, while other cities generally in our country have been quiet and their people idle, Fasadena has grown rapidly and substantially. Laborers have had work. Over a million feet of lumber per month has been used in building in the city. Miles of the best sort of street grading, paving, curbing, guttering, sidewalking and sewering have been done. Our merchants have been more proseprous than those in most towns. The people have been peaceful and happy, and well protected against vice and the vicious. The extensive affairs of the young growing city have been conducted in clean shape, and in a business-like manner.

"The committee respectfully submits that the election of these men will assure a continuance of the conduct of the city affairs on a broad-gauged, wide-awake business policy; and that from such policy we may reasonably expect the town to continue to grow in all its wealth and beauty."

MAIN-STREET RAILROAD. The stockholders of the Main-street and Agricultural-park Railroad will meet on May 2 to vote on the issuance of $350,000 5-per-cent, semi-annual ten-year bonds.

BANK MEETING. At the quarterly meeting of the directors of the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Los Angeles, held on the 8th inst., I. W. Hellman, Jr., was elected a director in place of C. L. Ducommun, deceased. President I. W. Hellman was granted leave of absence by the board for a period of six months, that he might enjoy a much-needed rest and trip abroad. He arrived in Los Angeles from San Francisco last Monday and will leave at once for Europe. Dividend No. 97., at the rate of 15 per cent, per annum, was declared for the quarter just ended, payable today.

A BANK PURCHASE. The announcement is made of the purchase by the State Loan and Trust Company of Los Angeles of twenty-two acres of land from P. A. Demens; also the property of J. F. Crank at Lamanda Park. The property stands in the center of a large tract already owned by the bank. The purchase included 1000 shares of water stock. The price paid is stated to have been $21,000;

BANK CLEARANCES. The absence

BANK CLEARANCES. The absence of any uniform rule among the banks of the United States for computing bank clearances has been frequently written of in The Times. The Los Angeles Investor has also something to say in its last issue on this subject:

"In giving a report of the operations of the Los Angeles Clearing-house for the quarter ended March 31, we take occasion to repeat our objection to the use of these statistics for the purpose of making comparisons with other cities. The tables so regularly published in financial journals, with their elaboration of percentages of loss and gain, are at best delusive and misleading, for the reason that no uniform rule is observed in making up the statements. It is alleged that in the majority of cities the banks add the total of checks they send to the clearing-house to the checks they receive from it, and thus double the returns. The want of agreement in the proper course to pursue destroys the value of the figures, as one is in doubt whether the amount claimed as exhibiting the volume of business should be divided in two, or not. So far as Los Angeles is concerned we are a ilberty to state that the returns are strictly accurate, representing a total that is a clean-cut exhibit of actual business done. We suggest that it would be in order for other clearing-houses to declare their practice in this regard, and that some endeavor should be made at the headquarters of commerce to establish a uniform practice in the publication of the returns."

IRON AND STEEL COMBINE.

Speaking of the reported combination of Bessemer producers, Dun's Review says: "The organization is loosely said to cover all the Bessemer producers in the country, and it is announced that out of twenty-three concerns engaged in the production, only one from this city (New York) failed to be represented, though three of those present declared that they would not be bound by the agreement until they had consulted directors. It is probable that the agreement and the statements omit those concerns which manufacture great quantities of Bessemer billets, but only for their own use, and if so the combination does not by any means represent the whole production in the country. It was decided to advance the price of billets at once, $20 at Pittsburgh being taken as a basis, and the combination makes an allotment of the output, those selling beyond the allotment to pay $2 per ton to those falling below it. The comparative success of rail, nail and beam combinations, while prices have been so greatly depressed by competition in branches which have no controlling combination, and in bar because the association falled, made it easier for the steel producers to unite, and they have prabably completed their organization. The effect of the plan, if carried into effect, will probably be to knock out of the business numerous smaller producers of finished products of steel who have to buy their billets. But whether higher prices will increase consumption of such products, or enable the combination to hold together if consumption is restricted, can only be determined after trial." COMMERCIAL.

change are looking into the circumstances attending the omission of the dividend on the common stock of the Americon Company, which was due February I, and the declaration made at a later date of a dividend of 2 percent on cash and 20 per cent, on scrip, on the common, payable May I.

The supposition in Wall street was that the real reason for not paying the dividend was that the company's profits had been cut off by its fight with the makers of plug tobacco. The company engaged in the manufacture of plug tobacco and the producers of this form of the weed started in as a retaliatory measure to make cigarettes. The warfare has continued with increasing energy to date. If the company could not earn the dividend due February 1 it was hard to see how it had earned one earn the account of the company's surplus represented by purchases of new business and property out of earnings. The total "undivided surplus" was given as $3,600,371.86. The 20 per cent. scrip dividend amounts to $3,580,000.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

FROST PROTECTION. The Florida Agriculturist commends the course of the people and newspapers of California in keeping up the discussion of matters pertaining to the protection of fruit trees against frost. In an article on this subject it says:

"A few days ago, after one of the freezes that have worried the orange-grower of California, as well as of Florida, an orange-grower of the former State evolved a plan, and if we are not mistaken put. It into operation. His idea was to have his grove piped for crude coal oil. Between every four trees in the grove an upright pipe extending from the main several feet terminated in a torch or burner. These pipes were fed with oil from a tank, and when a freeze was expected it was necessary only to turn on the oil and light the burners.

"We would like for some of our California friends to enlighten us on the success of this experiment, if the plans were ever consumated. It strikes us that this plan offers more protection than any other we have seen proposed, but even this we think would be of no effect in the case of a freeze like Florida felt last season. The temperature was so low, that in order to make the burners heat up the upper branches of trees sufficiently it would have been necessary to scorch, and perhaps kill the lower portion of the tree."

Dun's Weekly Review.

NEW YORK, April 10.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade, which issues tomorrow, will say that the volume of business has not, on the whole, increased, nor have prices appreciably advanced since April 1, when the range for all commodities was the lowest ever known in this country. Breadstuffs and pig-iron products have rises slightly, but some other articles have declined, and the rot of the matter is that the demand for consumption is still below expectations. The weather has not favored active distribution of spring goods. The injury done to winter wheat by storms and frosts at the west would appear from reports of State officers, to have been considerable. Remarkably low-estimates of condition are recorted by State authorities, which tends to iessee the considerable. But the reports are more gloony than a year ago, and the quantity of wheat which has come from farms since August 1 has been 163,781,594 bushels, against 129-76,660 at the same date last year. Western receipts for the week are about 60 per cent. larger than last year, and for two weeks recorded and the same date last year. Western receipts for the week are about 60 per cent.

GIT ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE:

NEW YORK, April 10.—The lowest total of business that has been recorded recently was made today. The aggregate dealings fell short 100,000 shares. At intervals during the day a period of stagnation ruled, but in the main the tone of the speculation, which we sentirely professional, was strong. Covering of shorts was the chief force under the market. Several days past the bear traders, anticipating vigorous action by the President in regard to the Cuban imbroglio, have been putting out lines figuring that the indorsement by the national executive of the overhelming assent of Congress would result in a depression of the stock market. As the hoped-for message seems as far away as ever, the professionals are disposed to contract their speculative obligations. An important influence today upon prices was a decline in sterling exchange offerings appears to be sufficient temporarily to supply the very moderate demand, and hence the improbability of shipments of gold in the immediate future. An encouraging development, which was not generally known, was further progress made toward the completion of the Northern Facific reorganisation plan. NEW YORK, April 10.—There was considerable excitement on the Produce Exchange when the government report was given out this afternoon showing a condition of 77.1 in winter wheat. Although it did not appear until 4 o'clock, every trader was on hand, for rumors had been conflicting all day, and there was an idea that it would be over 80. The actual figures, therefore, being given below this point, started an active buying movement, which ran prices up, May touched 73%, within ten minutes on the tip. The condition in Ohio was reported at 58, which occasioned much comment among the bulls, as confirming the dispatches about a poor showing in the State. The bears, however, assert that conditions have improved since the government figures were compiled.

Rheumatism

a hop-skip-and-jump with any of your younger friends? In fact, do you want to have your body strong and active? Then wear Dr. Sanden's Electric Beit for ten days. It has wonderful power to limber up the old muscles and charge them with new life—the energy of youth. So thinks old John Fallman, who is known to everybody on Bernal Heights as almost a life-long cripple from Rheumatism. He lives at the corner of Kosciulico street and Old Hickory avenue. He says that Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt is the only thing he has been able to find in 25 years to relieve him of Rheumatism. It gives him relief within two hours after he puts it on. Under date of April 2, 1886, he makes a statement to the effect that his Sanden Belt has proven invaluable to him, and that several of his friends who have tries it have found equally good results.

Dr. Sanden's

Remember the name, as there are other who attempt to profit by the good reputation of the Dr. Sanden Belt, and would sell you something you don't want. A correspondent writes from Pacific Grove: "There are lotal people who praise your Belts very highly." That is what makes people want it—praise from honest people it has cured. It cannot help being praised, for it cures. It gives into the body a stronger electrical force than can be got from any other electric belt made. It has a patent regulator which none other has, and is warranted to last one year. Why don't you try it? If you are sick it will save you many doctor bills. Anyway, send for the body about it, with prices, free, or call and consult the doctor free of charge.

from a Local Grasping Corpora-tion—The Street-railway Motor News Notes and Personals.

SANTA ANA, April 10.—(Regular prespondence,) In all probability a puse-to-house canvass will be made iroughout the city to ascertain beond any possible doubts that may be making in the mind of Trustee Garner he Fourth Ward, that two-thirds, core, of the voters of the city are dedly in favor of the city owning operating its electric-lighting it the same as it does its watersant the same as it does its water sorks.

Notwithstanding the fact that at the sait meeting of the City Council a perition signed by business aren and property-owners of over il is I favoring the city owning its plant, Trustees Gervey and Garner would not permit the people to express their views on the question by ballot. All the public has asked is to be given a chance to yole on the question, but so far these wo vigorous champions of the gas bompany have succeeded in staving off the election that the public is so anxious to hold. While these men may block the onward movement of the people for a time, they are liable to set crushed, together with several of their side partners, in the near future try the will of the populace when it is concentrated upon them.

At the annual meeting of the mem-ers of the First Presbyterian Church f Santa Ana held Thursday evening

The First Presbyterian Church is now mirely out of debt, having the past year paid debts to the amount of 2209.77. During the present year the hurch is to be repapered and painted, and a new carpet laid, which is now on the way from Philadelphia.

It is expected that the street railway etween Santa Ana and Orange will be between Santa Ana and Orange will be opened up again for traffic now in a very few days. The trial trip with the new motor which has just been received from Chicago, and put in place, will be made tomerrow (Saturday,) and if everything is all right regular trips will be made the fore part of next week. The Times correspondent was shown the motor today by Mr. Tolla, and its workings explained. The little machine accupies but small space in the center of the car, only one seat having to be removed for it, and for sufficient room to the deliberations of the engineer. Crude oil will be used for fuel, and the expense of running will, therefore, be light. The boller is shut off from view so that the power that will move the car will appear to the uninitiated as mysterious, almost, as electric power was to the average citizen a few years ago.

tecture and treated his subject from the standpoint of the demands of this locality.

The next was in the regular free lecture course, and dealt with "Electricity." H. H. Sinclair, general manager of the Redlands Electric Light and Power Company, was the speaker. It was his study, as he said, to treat the subject in a kindergarten way, and thus he succeeded in bringing the marvels of electrical energy within comparative comprehension of his mixed audience, and scored a success.

A GREAT BINEFACTOR.

The work which A. K. Smiley is doing for Redlands in the way of preparing to lay out a city park, and which was first published in The Times, is of even greater dimensions than was recorded. In addition to the purchase noted, he has secured other land, making sixteen acres allogether, and while he says he wishes it distinctly understood that he makes no promises, he clearly intimates that it is his intention at some future time to donate the property to the city. It will be generally desired that this may be long deferred, as it will be public in the sense that the beautiful Cafion Crest Park is public, and under Mr. Smiley's personal ownership, will receive far better care than it would under city ownership. A portion of the property purchased is for a short-cut drive from the Y.M.C.A. building to the proposed park.

Murderer.

SAN DIEGO, April 10.—(Regular Correspondence.) Judge Pierce signed a writ of probable cause in the case of J. J. Ebanks, sentenced to hang June 19, for double murder. The county has spent much money convicting this man of one of the most atrocious murders ever perpetrated. And now the machinery of the courts is working apparently to keep the convict from the hangman's moose as long as there remains a single technicality on which to base an objection to the execution of the sentence. A Sailboat Unable to Make Port Les Angeles.

SAN PEDRO, April 10.—(Regular Correspondence.) Constable Peter Winther had a rough time Thursday in an endeavor to sail to the Southern Pacific Company's wharf north of Santa Monica. A crew for the British bark Fernbank, which a few days ago finished discharging at that wharf, had been engaged in San Pedro and Mr. Winther started with a sailboat to take the crew to the vessed. The boat was sailed out of the harbor Thursday morning and headed for the Santa Monica coast. When within a few miles of the destination the sea became very rough and the wind was blowing a gale. Finding it was unsafe to attempt to make a landing, Winther started back toward San Pedro and arrived here at 2 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Helen Gougar held forth in the Methodist Church last night to a fair house. It was a noticeable fact that womankind made up the majority of the audience, the first lecture having demonstrated to the lords of creation that they would hear no good of themselves. Mrs. Gougar delivered what was primarily designed as a temperance lecture; in reality it was a Prohibition campaign argument, with a liberal allowance of universal suffrage on the side. Mrs. Gougar was inpartial in her arraignment of the old parties, and included the Populists in the same category, insofar as iniquity and all-around viciousness was concerned. It was a forceful address from the standpoint of the total abstainer and woman-suffragist.

Pig Lemons and Oranges.

Yesterday was the day for mammoth fruit at the Chamber of Commerce. The Ontario Land and Improvement Company sent in a lemon weighing twenty-four ounces. It is a handsome specimen and grew on a Villa Franca tree. Its circumferance at the middle is thirteen and three-quarters inches and around its greatest length fourteen and five-sixths inches. It is, perhaps, the largest lemon ever grown in California. A bunch of mammoth oranges was also sent in by L. W. Kirby of Yorbs, Orange county. There were six oranges in the bunch, the largest of which was fifteen and one-half inches in circumference. Oranges and lemons, not so large as those mentioned above, but excellent in appearance, were received from the Orange county Chamber of Commerce. Big Lemons and Oranges.

all day a gale was blowing, carrying clouds of dust and raising grave doubts in the minds of strangers regarding the climatic perfection of Southern California. Every one was out as usual, but it was a day when a cosy nook by the fire-side was preferred to a stroll along the level stretches in the western suburbs, or a trip to the beach.

At Redondo the gale came from the northwest, blowing great guns. The breakers burst upon the beach in huge masses, affording a spectacle alike picturesque and startling. Five hundred feet off shore the fishing boat of "Shorty" Edwards was at anchor. Its owner had come ashore, being aware of the severity of the gale, and not darling to trust himself affoat. He acted wisely, for the boat at anchor capsized, and even the tug Pelican was buffeted in such a manner as to put to the blush those who have been asking that the government make a harbor by fencing off from the open roadstead a place in this angry sea affording a safe anchorage. Santa Monica was slightly sheltered by Point Duma, but even with this partial advantage the raging waters in front of Mr. Huntington's wharf gave promise of ripping the insides out of it. When the gales come from the southwest, Santa Monica gets the entire brunt and Redondo is partially protected by Point Firmin.

In the southwest part of Los Angeles, for a brief space of time, hall fell, delighting the children. This was followed by a brisk shower, of which the business district caught only a few scattering drops. In the mountains the rain fell in torrents, while at San Bernardino rain, hall and snow fell in delighting tree children. ### THE PUENTE MURDER.

THE IDENTITY OF THE MURDER ERS STILL IN DOUBT.

The Coroner's Inquest Reveals the Shooting-Two Men Arrested on

An inquest has been held over the body of John Hayes, the man who was murdered at Puente by robbers Thurs-day night, as related in yesterday's Times, but it is still unknown who did the foul deed.

Coroner Campbell went to Puente yes-terday afternoon to investigate the cir-cumstances surrounding the affair. From the testimony of Thomas Hayes. the brother of the deceased, W. P. Bryant, John Dietzel, Dr. Cave and George Milis, a full account of the murder as far as the particulars have yet been ascertained, can be learned.

John Hayes, an unmarried man, 37

John Hayes, an unmarried man, 37 years of age, was the son of one of the California pieneers. With his brother he was engaged in the general merchandise business at Puente, the post-office being in the store. Every night it was his custom to go across the street to a saloon and restaurant kept by Mrs. Dietzel and drink a blass or two of beer. Thursday night he went across the street as usual, and stayed there a little while, chatting with W. P. Bryant, Mrs. Dietzel and her fourteen-year-old son, John Dietzel. He said good-night and went back to the store.

Hayes went into the store and blew out the lamp which was burning there. Then he started toward the door, intending to look it. He was confronted by two robbers with their heads muffled in gunny-sack masks and wearing black and yellow oil-skin coats, respectively. They rified the money-drawer. Then, in high-pitched, unnatural voices, they ordered Hayes to open the safe. He replied he must have some light to see the combination.

Meanwhile Johnnie Dietzel had come to the store, and, glancing in, saw the state of affairs. The lad ran back to the store-keeper's aid. Bryant to come to the store-keeper's aid. Bryant to me to the store-keeper's aid. Bryant haughed and told him he was just trying to play an April-fool joke. The boy insisted, and so Bryant at last started, still half believing it was all a joke. The two stepped inside the store. The moment the robbers saw them they covered them to move on to the rear of the store. They obeyed. Just then John Hayes came out of the bedroom, into which the robbers had sent him to get a light, carryling a pistol in the left hand and a lamp in the right. Bryant cried out: "Drop the lamp!" Hayes hesitated, and was lost. The robbers fired two shots, one bullet piercing Hayes's breat three inches to the right of the right nipple. The bullet broke the third rib, fractured one of the vertebrae and ledged just under the skin of the back. Hayes fell, dying, to the fioor, the lamp dropping from his nerveless fingers.

tering the store. On the floor lay John Hayes, mortally wounded, with his revolver lying by his left hand.

Dr. Frederick B. Cave of Ti Monte was summoned, but he came too late to do anything for John Hayes.

The inquest was held yesterlay afternoon in the store in which the foul deed was done. There was intense excitement through all the country round, but there were few clews on which to work as to the identity of the murderers. The coroner's jury decided that Hayes came to his death by gunshot wounds at the hands of persons unknown.

shot wounds at the hands of persons unknown.
Sheriff Burr was notified at once. He reached the little town at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, in company with Deputy Sheriffs Barnhill and White. There were few clews to work upon, but everything possible was done. The best descriptions obtainable were sent out to peace officers throughout Southern California. George B. Mills, a Puente rancher, announced that he had seen two men hanging around the village, from sunset till dark on Thursday, in California. George B. Mills, a Puente rancher, announced that he had seen two men hanging around the village, from sunset till dark on Thursday, in a way to arouse suspicion in his mind. One wore a dark soft hat and one a light hat. One wore a dark ulster and one a light ulster. There is another clew. The station agent saw two men jump off a baggage car Thursday afternoon. He suspects they know something of the crime.

Sheriff Burr returned to the city with his deputies yesterday afternoon, just after sundown. There were two men in the party who are believed to have been placed under arrest on suspicion of complicity in the crime. It is said there are three men who live near El Monte who formerly did a great deal of trading with Hayes. There was some difficulty between them and Hayes refused to let them have any more goods at his store. This intensified the ill-feeling and one of the three men is said to have been heard making threats against Hayes. It is believed Sheriff Burr has arrested two of these men on suspicion and has ordered that their names be not placed on the books of the County Jail, in order that their identity may not become public and their reputation injured, if they are indeed innocent men.

It is reported that yesterday morning a man was in the saloon at Puente much under the influence of liquor. The sole topic of conversation, of course, was the robbery and murder. The talk fell on the smallness of the sum which the robbers had secured. The drunken man interposed that many a man had been killed for $5 before Hayes, The man's words aroused suspicion.

Ran Away from Home.

Early Wednesday morning Roy and Alfred Cummings ran away from the home of their grandfather, H. W. Dugdale of Etiwanda, with whom they have lived for five years, since their mother died. Mr. Dugdale called at the Police Station yesterday to ask if Chief Glass could help him to find the runaways. Frightened by their grandfather's telling them he would send them to the Whittier State School if they did not behave themselves better, they told the boys of the neighborhood they were going to run away to Los Angeles. They had no money with which to start out. Their father, formerly a Los Angeles real estate man, is now working at Santa Cruz.

Sheridan the last of the cavalry at that post, and will leave there only Company E of the First Artiliery, and all of the Fifteenth Infantry. It is quite likely that a general transfer of cavalry troops will follow soon. It is possible that Troop A of the First Cavalry, now at Fort Huachuca, will be sent to Fort Sheridan. It is the only cavalry troop at Huachuca, and it is not thought the Secretary of War Intends to have two troops there hereafter, though he refuses to give any information on this point at present. At Fort Grant there are already Troops A, C, E, F and I, of the Seventh Cavalry, and that post is the headquarters of the regiment. Col. E. V. Sumner's stationed there in charge of the troops. They were removed from Fort Riley, Kan., to Fort Grant about a year ago. The removal of the two remaining troops from Sheridan to Arizona will concentrate all the Seventh on the frontier, Troop B being already at Fort Apache, Ariz. Troop D at Fort Bayard, N. M., and Troop L at Fort Sill, I. T. The Seventh was Custer's regiment and was engaged in all the most vigorous Indian campaigns. The headquarters of the regiment was at Fort Riley, Kan., for years, the transfer to Arizona having taken place last spring.

The order just issued provides for fer to Arizona having taken place last spring.

The order just issued provides for the first movement of troops this year. It is the foreruner of other similar orders, which will be issued in a few days, making general transfers of both cavalry and infantry. It is expected that some order will soon be issued transferring the Fifteenth Regiment of Infantry from Fort Sheridan to a frontier post, or breaking up the regiment, which is now concentrated at Fort Sheridan, and assigning the companies to different posts.

Ehrenberg Under Arrest.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

ST. LOUIS (Mo.,) April 10.—By the arrest of two men who gave their names as Rev. Jacob Rubin and Isidor Ehrenberg, the police believe they have secured two crooks that have been operating all over the country. They were arrested as the result of an alleged attempt to swindle Rudolph Vock. The men represented themselves as partners in a dry goods business house in Hartford, with a third man, whom they said they were trying to beat. In their attempt to do so, the prisoners told the saloon-keeper that they had boxed up all the goods in their store, and sent them West with the intention of selling, them. They asked the saloon-keeper for the use of his name for the purpose of opening a store and selling the goods. He coming suspicious that the men were swindlers, Vock reported the matter to the police, who arrested Rubin and Ehrenberg.

When taken to the Four Courts and questioned by Chief of Detectives Des-

Gen. Wheaton may use his own discretion in assigning the troops, but Troop B will probably be sent to Huachuca, and Troop K to Grant. Maj. H. J. Nowian, Seventh Cavalry, who is now at Fort Sheridan, is also transferred, and is to be assigned to a new station by Gen. Wheaton.

This order will remove from Fort Sheridan the last of the cavalry at that post, and will leave there only Company E of the First Artillery, and Company E of the First Artillery, and Long Island City, and because it does not provide for a referendum. A ma-jority of the Legislature may pass the bill over the Mayor's veto.
